

150 HEAR U. S.
SENATOR WILLIAMSOIL PROSPECTS
CALLED GOOD

One hundred and fifty persons braved the damp coldness of Tuesday night to listen to Senator Williams in Malone Park. Their bravery was well rewarded for Senator Williams is an excellent speaker and a man of pleasing personality. He was introduced by Congressman Ralph Bailey, who in a few words, told of the accomplishments of the Senator in the Senate and of the impression he had made upon his colleagues as a skilled and able legislator.

Senator Williams in his address stressed three main points, Farm Relief, his opposition to the World Court, and Law Enforcement. In speaking of his vote for the McNary-Haugen Farm measure, he explained the measure, the principle upon which it would work, which, so he asserts is that of protective tariff and then stated that he pledged himself to the furtherance of farm relief. He announced himself as irrevocably opposed to the World Court and in utter accord with the platform of the Republican party declaring for law enforcement.

In closing his address, he directed a very plausible attack upon Proctor outlining the position Proctor has taken in opposition to himself. He then made mention of the fact that the Republican State Platform is formed after the primary election by the candidates for Congress and the Senate and that the present congressman and himself had come to an agreement on the fundamental principles of Republicanism which, in the primary campaign Proctor was attacking, and that it might be embarrassing to the latter were he nominated to have to subscribe to those principles against which he had declared himself. He also questioned Proctor's sincerity in regard to prohibition, accusing him of seeking the wet vote of St. Louis by making a plea on the following grounds: "Mr. Proctor told the people of St. Louis that Senator Reed was one of the ablest debaters and parliamentarians in the United States, but even he had not been able to bring about a repeal of the eighteenth amendment or to liberalize the Volstead act. In that connection Mr. Proctor said neither he nor any other legislator will be able to do so. If Mr. Proctor knows that neither Senator Reed nor any other legislator will be able to change the eighteenth amendment or to cancel the Volstead law, then what is he talking about and why is he making an appeal to the good Christian people of the State of Missouri? The sincerity of that statement by Mr. Proctor should be proof enough of the character of the campaign he is making".

MRS. MORRIS FINED FOR DISTURBING THE PEACE

Mrs. N. E. Morris was found guilty of disturbing the peace and fined $15 and costs by a jury in Police Court, Tuesday. She appealed the case to Circuit Court. Mrs. Morris was charged with disturbing the peace on or about May 29 by Bill Carson, Deputy Marshal, who testified that on the night mentioned he was talking to R. T. Sexton near the Jefferson Hotel, when Mrs. Morris called him aside and told him that she wished to talk to him. He stated that he walked off a little distance with her and she asked him what he had against her, that he told her that he didn't have anything against her, but was simply doing his duty and that when he told her this, she began abusing him with vile and offensive language. He then told her that he was going to arrest her, which he did, after allowing her to go to the Meat Market after meat. In making the arrest Mrs. Morris resisted and in the scuffle she fell and struck her head, causing it to bleed.

The defense based its case on a point of law to the effect that the peace of an officer cannot be disturbed and that the evidence was insufficient for conviction, the prosecution attacking the point in question on the ground that it is the duty of the state to uphold the sanctity of person of the officers of the State.

CORONER'S JURY EXONERATES
NEGRO WOMAN FROM BLAME

The coroner's jury which met on Tuesday morning to hold an inquest over the body of Lucy Burton, who fell dead Saturday, exonerated Liza Wilson, negro cook for Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Skillman from any blame in connection with the death.

He also attacked Mr. Proctor's record as State Senator when he voted against the prohibition enforcement law and failed to vote for the amendment granting women the right to vote.

From Sikeston, Senator Williams went to Poplar Bluff speaking there on Wednesday night. Thursday night he spoke in Mountain Grove, Friday night in Springfield and Saturday night in Carthage.

THREE YEAR OLD
GIRL RUN OVER BY CAR

Lucille Arnett, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Arnett, was run over at the corner of Scott and Trotter Streets, Sunday afternoon by J. W. Wilkins. The child was knocked down by the bumper, the car passing completely over her body which fortunately was not touched by any of the wheels. A bad cut behind her left ear, a light scalp wound and bruises were the only injuries sustained.

Mr. Wilkins was driving along very slowly and did not see the child at all, as he was watching out for a group of children playing about in the street. Lucille had started to cross the street and did not see the car coming. Her mother, who was sitting on the front porch of a neighbor's house across the street, saw the child in the path of the car and shouted to her. Lucille was startled, looked in all directions, and then ran directly in the path of the car. Mr. Wilkins was in no way to blame, according to the mother.

UNION SERVICES AT PARK
PROVING POPULAR

The large increase in attendance at the Union Services in Malone Park last Sunday evening indicates that the people of Sikeston are pleased with them. Rev. John O. Ensor of the Methodist Church, faced a very attentive and interested audience as he preached with enthusiasm on "The Way Out Of Trouble". It was a timely and helpful message.

Those who have heard Rev. Ensor like to hear him again. He has an evangelistic passion to point men to the better life that is to be highly commended. Those who have been attending these services are becoming enthusiastic advertisers. After all, a satisfied customer is the best kind of an advertisement. Come and be convinced.

"The Devil's Three Attempts to Destroy the Church" is the subject of the sermon to be delivered by Rev. E. B. Hensley, pastor of the Christian Church, next Sunday evening at 8:00 o'clock. This sermon undertakes to account for the presence of some things in the church that have been a puzzle to many. If the story of the struggle between the Church and the Devil is not familiar to you, hear this sermon.

In our first two services, the seats have been well filled, and we noted that many went away for lack of seats. Our seating capacity will be greatly increased next Sunday evening and for future services. Come early.

Miss Margaret Woods, C. L. Blanton, Jr., Louis Scott, Bill Smith, Dick Stubbs, Roy Smith and Irving Cox attended the dance at Portageville on Tuesday night.

FERRY BOATS
GO ON SCHEDULE

The issuance of a new schedule for boats operating between Cairo and Birds Point by the county court of Mississippi County Wednesday, is believed to have averted a repetition of the ferry war that caused so much inconvenience to tourists last summer and in some cases resulted in near-accidents. The addition of a second boat, the Pilgrim, by the Tri-State Ferry Company, occasioned the outburst of rivalry among the operators early this week.

The court issued a schedule that will give regular service every half-hour between the hours of 5:30 a. m. and 1:45 a. m. Violation of this schedule by the operators will result in revocation of licenses, the court ordered.

A wharf master has been stationed at the landing at Birds Point to see that the schedule is strictly enforced. His salary was ordered paid by the ferries, which will be charged $30 a month for maintenance of the service by the county court.

In order to make the regulation of traffic easier and to keep boats from staying at the landing longer than their allotted time, traffic arms will be placed on the incline to be lowered when each boat's time has expired.

Five boats are now operating between Cairo and Birds Point. The Tri-State Ferry Company operates the Tourist and the Pilgrim, while the Cairo City Ferry Company operates the Kiwanis, Cary Bird and the Three States.—Cape Missourian.

LAND BEING DEPLETED
BY CONTINUOUS CROPPING

The system of continuous cropping, which has been employed in Southeast Missouri ever since the land has been in cultivation, is rapidly depleting the soil of its natural fertility, according to C. F. Bruton, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. A man's farm is like his bank account, says Mr. Bruton. If he puts $1000 in the bank and keeps checking out without putting anything in, some day he will get a notice from the bank that he is overdrawn. Likewise, with his farm, if he keeps continually cropping the land without adding anything to it, he depletes the fertility and some year he will have a crop failure which will be his notice that his land account is overdrawn.

The best way to prevent this, says Mr. Bruton, is dairy farming, a type of farming which is being successfully practiced by Greer and Turner, John Reiss and the Hebbeler Bros.

If enough farmers could be induced to take up dairying, it would be a simple manner to establish a creamery here to take care of the cream and the skim milk could be utilized as feed for hogs. And the farmer would have a steady income of cash money coming in to him from his cows.

While the leading agricultural authorities of the country are advocating dairying and truck farming as the solution to the farming problem, there is also a Biblical foundation for dairying, the Lord telling Abram when he started out, to keep up the fertility of the soil with livestock.

Buddy Matthews and Linn Smith spent the weekend in Arlington, Ky., as the guests of Miss Dorothy Lillard.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Bailey left on Thursday for Oxford, Ind., where they will spend the next two weeks visiting.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Malone and daughter, Miss Sara, were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Bahn and family of Cape Girardeau Tuesday night.

The Standard wishes to state that Mr. Courtney, who is now conducting a Booster Campaign for some of our merchants and all of Sikeston, is the same Mr. Courtney who put over the big sale for the Baker-Bowman Hardware Co. several months ago and who has been engaged by the Fair Directors to handle a popularity contest for the Southeast Missouri District Fair this fall.

When he first came to our city, he came highly recommended as a business man and gentleman and the success he met with on the Baker-Bowman sale was a guarantee of his business ability. He is running no skin game and will run none, and the confidence of the public can be placed in him. This is printed without the knowledge of Mr. Courtney and to offset the grumblings of a man who was disappointed in securing a little batch of printing and is endeavoring to disparage the work of Mr. Courtney.

Manufacturers of nationally used products of all kinds have always sought to broaden their market among farm people. An example of that is hand, as over our own editorial desk comes regularly ready-made "news" regarding metal grain bins, concrete silos, plumbing systems for homes, farm electric plants and about a thousand and one other manufactured articles. The object of sending this alleged news to us is to induce us to run this free advertising with the object in view of increasing the sale of these manufactured articles among our farm folks.

Needless to say our yawning waste basket receives its full share of this "news".

There is no doubt in our mind that farm folks are just as anxious as their city brethren to have in their homes all the modern conveniences. Most farmers would like to give their wives labor saving equipment for use about the house. They appreciate running water in the house, electricity for illumination and power, modern heating systems and other things which make housekeeping easier, and give the housewife more leisure to devote to her children, and to recreation. To insinuate that farmers do not have this generous motive is an insult which we resent.

Farmers appreciate fully the value of labor saving machinery for farm operations. They realize the value of labor saving equipment in reducing the cost of production of farm products. They realize the value of good dairy barns in increasing profits from the dairy herd. To intimate that they must be "educated" to the value of these things is a reflection only upon him who offers the insinuation.

The point that manufacturers do not seem to have grasped is that farmers will use manufactured products in proportion to their ability to buy them. With an increase of farm prosperity, manufacturers may expect an increase in their sales to farm folks. From their own standpoint, then it is more important to manufacturers than agricultural prosperity be restored than that sales efforts be increased. Just as the increased wages for union labor have resulted in an increase in the manufacturers' market among union laborers, market among union laborers, just so will an increase in agricultural prosperity result in increased farmers.—Missouri Farm Bureau News.

AMERICA ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY YEARS AGO

New York, July 12, 1776.—The king's navy today joined his army and is anchored off Staten Island. With it came more transports and more soldiers on the mission of peace. The admiral of the fleet is Lord Richard Howe, brother of General William Howe the military commander. Lord Howe comes, so they say, not as a fighting sailor, but as his majesty's official peace commissioner duly delegated to tell these United States how they can restore themselves in the good will of the British ministry and then secure—well nobody knows yet what Lord Howe has to offer. And until he offers it nobody is going to assume that the offer will be satisfactory.

The first naval maneuver of the enemy after Lord Howe's arrival—immediately after, in fact—was the sending of two warships up the North River to the highlands of Hudson's River for the purpose of cutting off Washington's communications by the river with Albany, and the American army, which has recently retreated from Canada to Crown Point. Two enemy ships could easily accomplish this, since General Washington has no warships to match theirs. The British ships may also have carried soldiers below deck who will land somewhere along the river to threaten land communications.

Availing themselves of a brisk and favorable breeze with a flowing tide, the British ships successfully ran our batteries on the New York City water front and at Paulus Hook on the Jersey side. Notwithstanding a heavy and incessant cannonade from both shores, the Britishers got by without sustaining any damage that could be observed from the shore. Nor did their big guns which they kept busy as they sailed by do harm to the batteries. However, the enemy had the better of the argument, since the Americans failed to prevent their passage up the river.

Gen. George Clinton commands the New York militia along Hudson's River. General Washington has ordered him to assemble as large a force as possible at Anthony's Nose and to send an express to the western parts of Connecticut to call out their militia. General Clinton had anticipated this order by mobilizing three regiments of militia and stationing them at Newburg, Ft. Montgomery and Ft.

Constitution, opposite West Point.

A solid chain of sloops and small boats will be stretched across the river at West Point, to be set afire if the enemy attempts to pass that place.

In making pickles the best cover for the surface consists of a circular board about one inch in thickness and two inches less in diameter than the inside of the receptacle in which it is used. The best covers are made of oak or other hardwoods—never yellow or pitch pine. Before use dip in melted paraffin and then burn over with flame.

Milk utensils should be rinsed in cold water immediately after they have been used, before the milk has had time to dry upon them, then washed thoroughly in hot water to which soda or some washing powder has been added. Brushes are preferable to cloths for washing dairy utensils, as they are more easily kept clean and do better work. After washing, the utensils must be rinsed and sterilized. A good way to sterilize them is to immerse in boiling water for at least two minutes or subject them to live steam for the same length of time. The most effective method is to put them into a tight closet thoroughly sterilized with steam. Remove utensils while hot so they will dry from their own heat. Keep the vessels in an averted position in a clean place, free from dust, flies, or other contamination.

XENOPHON CAVERNO

HEADLIGHT FARM
CANALOU, MISSOURI
NEW MARIETTA COUNTY

July 13, 1926

To the Farm Bureau Members of Southeast Missouri:

I wish I could "stump" this congressional district before the primary, not for any party, not for any candidate, but for the farmer himself.

I have been in the thick of the fight for farm relief at Washington and I should like to tell the farmers of this district the whole story. In this short letter I can only give a few facts and a few conclusions and let you take them for what they are worth without the whole story and without argument.

1. Capital and labor, all the big interests, will vote for their friends without regard to party. The farmer is the only voter who is expected to vote according to party name, party prejudice, or party platform.

2. Both parties repudiated the farm relief planks of their platforms.

3. The number of members in both houses who gave active, intelligent support to farm relief legislation was very small. They belonged to both parties. They fought the battle on the floor of congress. They sat in the conferences of the "Farm Lobby". They were our friends and advisors and we were theirs. Together we cemented the friendship of the farmers, north and south; together we shook the strangle hold of the industrial east.

4. We farmers need more representatives of this kind. We have one, and one only, as a candidate for congress in this district who falls in this class. He has the education, he has the experience, he has the courage, he has the quickness of brain, that will put him at once into the councils of the farm leaders at Washington, both on and off the floor of the House.

5. The candidate I refer to is Thad Snow of Charleston. He represents the best type of American farming. He lives on a farm. He works on a farm with both hand and brain, but his interests are as wide as the world. I have known him for a dozen years; have worked with him on all kinds of organization; have discussed politics and economics, both domestic and foreign; capital and labor; "wet and dry". I would rather have him represent me in congress than any other man in the district. He will not represent farming in any narrow sense. He will use his vote and his influence to give to the men and women who work with their hands and their brains a larger share of the value they produce on the farm, in the shop, on the railroad, in the office, in the store.

6. There is no one remedy for the farmer's troubles. Double the tariff, cut it in two, or abolish it, and the farmer would still be at a disadvantage. Legislation for economic opportunity is obtained by TRADING and FIGHTING in congress. These things cannot be done effectively by proxy. Lawyers' speeches, either on the stump or in congress, will not get the farmer anywhere. Even VOTING right is not enough.

7. If the tragedy of American farming is to be burned into the conscience of congress it must be done by men who have LIVED the tragedy. If the farmer is to get legislation which will give him equal opportunity with other interests, based on his voting power and the value of his service rendered, he must go and get it himself.

8. Secretary Mellon has stated the issue. It is "shall the American farmer be compelled to furnish cheap food and raw materials for the American manufacturer or shall he be allowed to live on the American level?"

9. No district in the United States has a better opportunity to smash home the answer than this. This is not MY job, nor is it THAD SNOW'S job, any more than it is YOURS. It is up to you to get out and work and TALK and get the message across to your neighbor.

Sincerely yours,

XENOPHON CAVERNO.

The Best Is None Too Good

AROUND THE WORLD IN TWENTY-ONE DAYS

Washington is noted for her wonderful drives as well as for her imposing Government buildings. One of the prettiest is through the Mall out by the Washington monument, the Tidal Basin to the Lincoln Memorial. The Japanese Government sent the cherry trees from Japan to be placed along the drives of the Tidal Basin and in cherry blossom time it is beautiful and the fragrance of the blooms fill the air.

The next drive of importance is through Rock Creek Park where the National Zoo is located. This is a natural park with cliffs, hills and vales with the waters of Rock Creek winding through it. Follows Arlington, the National Soldiers' Home, and many lesser drives.

The Blanton family lived for sixteen years in the village of Falls Church, Va., some ten miles west, one of the prettiest little towns surrounding Washington. Six of our children were born in this village, where we owned a home. Of course this place held many memories for us, some pleasant, others unpleasant. Several trips were made to this point and a very pleasant evening spent with our next door neighbor, Mrs. R. C. L. Moncure, and her fine son, Richard. Mrs. Moncure was one of the best neighbors imaginable and she and her family were very close to us.

The visit to our old home brought us in contact with many acquaintances who seemed glad to see us again, and for our part we were pleased to meet them.

In this village is one of the old Episcopal Churches of Virginia, built before the Revolutionary War, and George Washington was a vestryman and frequently attended church there.

Wednesday before noon, having exhausted our allotted leave, H. C. the editor, Ralph and John Bailey turned our faces westward and for home.

Just before reaching Frederick, Md., some 60 miles from Washington, we passed the home of Gen. Bradley T. Johnson of Confederate fame. It was a mansion fit for the home of any man. Frederick had changed little in the twenty years since we were there as a representative of the Supervising Architects office to attend the funeral of Louis Moberly, an employee of the Department and our assistant.

The health and morals of a people depend mainly upon the food they eat and the homes they live in.

COMMON FOODS

For a sandwich filling the following is one that may be easily made of materials usually plentiful:

Pressed Egg and Ham Sandwiches.—Chop fine six hard-cooked eggs, one green onion and one-half of a green pepper. Mix with one-half teaspoonful of salt and one tablespoonful of prepared mustard. Place half the mixture in a small greased pan, press down and add a layer of chopped ham, using one and one-half cupfuls; finish with the rest of the egg mixture and pour over two tablespoonsfuls of soup stock. Let stand to chill and become firm.

Onion Sandwiches.—Chop fine a large Southern onion, mix with French dressing and spread on buttered bread and serve for supper sandwiches with a cup of tea or cocoa. Chopped carrot with onion and a little mayonnaise makes another very good filling. Vary with chopped celery added, or taking the place of the onion.

Curried Eggs.—Cook six eggs in the shell until hard, using three quarts of boiling water poured over them, then cover tightly and let stand one-half hour on the back of the stove. They will be well cooked without being tough, provided the eggs were of the room temperature when put to cook. Remove the shells and cut the eggs into halves. Fry a teaspoonful of onion in a tablespoonful of butter, add one tablespoonful of cornstarch, or two of flour, mixed with half a tablespoonful of curry powder. Pour over one and one-half cupfuls of good stock, cream or milk. Simmer until well cooked, add the eggs and serve on toast with the sauce poured over the eggs and toast.

Corn Flake Dainties.—Take two cupfuls of corn flakes, one cupful of coconut, one egg white well beaten, a speck of salt, a half teaspoonful of vanilla and one cupful of sugar. To the beaten egg add the sugar, then corn flakes, coconut and other ingredients. Drop by spoonfuls on a baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven. Other kinds of nuts may be used if coarsely chopped.

Nellie Maxwell

It was in Frederick that lived Barbary Fritchie around which a poet weaved a poem about the flag and gray head. This was but a dream, though Barbary Fritchie was a real being and the Confederate soldiers did pass through the city, but not by her house.

A short distance to the north of Frederick was the birthplace of Admiral Schley, who won the naval battle of Santiago, Cuba, and sunk the Spanish fleet. It was the pleasure of the editor to sit in lodge in Washington when Admiral Schley was made a Master Mason. Towards the middle of the afternoon we passed thru Hagerstown and on to the battlefield of Gettysburg, where the Confederate Army was repulsed and started on their retreat to the Shenandoah Valley. After one sees this battlefield, it seems incredibl that such men as the Confederate Generals were, would give battle on such a field, that seemed to us to be almost impregnable. The high tide of the Confederate advance was marked by a monument. It was contended by Southern leaders that if General Longstreet had moved his Division at the hour the orders called for, the tide of battle would have turned to a victory instead of defeat.

Glory does not win battles, if so, the charge of Pickett's Division of Virginia regulars would have carried the day, as they cut through the Federal Army and back to their old lines with a loss of 60 per cent. A concentrated cross-fire of the Federal batteries and infantry was so withering that the North Carolina troops could not follow and give support. On this field of battle the soldiers of old Virginia proved their valor by never flinching. It was the beginning of the end as Lee and his Generals fought a series of retreating battles until they were worn and starved to surrender.

Back from Gettysburg to Hagerstown for the night and an early start Thursday morning. Hagerstown is in one of the northern tiers of counties in Maryland and is situated in one of the finest farming countries in the United States. Fine homes, fine barns, big orchards, big dairy herds, big flocks of poultry and all houses and barns painted in high order. Hagerstown has the biggest District Fair and Poultry Show held any place in the United States during the month of October. It is not unusual to have 5000 entries in the poultry department alone. In our younger days we were a visitor to the Hagerstown Fair for a number of years, met many poultry fanciers from Canada and the New England States, and saw a few "chickens". When we were in our poultry prime, we were called on at a banquet where several hundred chicken men and women were seated, to make a talk about poultry in Virginia. We never could remember just what we said, as it was in the good old days. Anyway, some Canadian fanciers at Madison Square Garden poultry show later in the winter called on us to finish the speech we started at Hagerstown.

From Hagerstown to Frostburg, Md., was one orchard after another and on one of the highest points of this range of the Allegheny Mountains were several large apple orchards in full bloom. The altitude was more than 2000 feet and being so far north all flowers and vegetation was late. In fact lilac and apple blossoms had disappeared in Southeast Missouri before we left home and to see the oak trees just beginning to put forth the first leaves, with lilac and fresh apple blossoms made it seem like a different country sure enough. We encountered dogwood bloom by the acre in this part of the mountains and close by were acres of chestnut trees that had been killed by a disease or blight. At one point was cut through the forests of the mountains a line of demarcation known as Mason and Dixon Line, that is an imaginary line along the latitude that divides the North and South. This line was crossed several times along the border of Maryland and Pennsylvania. Before reaching Washington, Pa., from Frostburg, we stopped by the roadside, where General Braddock was killed during the war between the English and Americans on one side and the French and Indians on the other. A large monument marks the spot and it is surrounded by a clump of tall cedars. It will be recalled that General Braddock, in charge of British regulars that landed at Alexandria, Va., with George Washington and his Colonials, started through the wilderness to Ft. Duquesne, now Pittsburgh, to capture that place from the French and Indians, when he was ambushed by the Indians and many of the British massacred. It will be remembered too, that Washington counseled General Braddock not to march with his bands playing, but to send out scouts and to fight behind trees as did the Indians. Gen. Braddock censored Washington for this, and when the Indians fell on the British all would have been killed if Washington and his Colonials had not covered their position with his brother.

NOTICE TO VACANT LOT OWNERS

You are hereby requested to obey Ordinance No. 352 of the Revised Ordinances of the City of Sikeston in reference to

Not Permitting Vacant Lots to Grow Up In Weeds

The ordinance reads as follows: "No person, firm or corporation or co-partnership owning or controlling any vacant lots or land shall permit said lots or land to grow up in weeds or other uncultivated vegetation."

And provides the penalty as follows:

"Any person violating the above ordinance shall be fined not more than one hundred dollars or by imprisonment in the city jail not more than 90 days, or by both such fine and imprisonment."

I ask your co-operation in obeying the above ordinance, and for the benefit of those who are not equipped to do this we will arrange with men to cut these weeds and charge same to the owner of the property. Those who wish to take advantage of this arrangement will call John Fox, City Clerk, at the City Hall, on Phone No. 9.

retreat by fighting as did the Indians, from behind the trees.

From Washington, Pa., to Cumberland Gap, Md., we traveled without incident, except at one point the States of Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia could be seen. It was fairly late in the day when we reached Wheeling, W. Va., but we pushed on into Ohio for the night. At Wheeling it was necessary to pay a toll of 5¢ for the car and party to cross the Ohio River on a bridge. We suppose the small charge was sufficient for the upkeep of the bridge. But a few miles out of Wheeling at a bridge at the bottom of a hill, were eight crosses to mark the place where that many people had been killed by reckless driving. During the drive across the State of Ohio on this one road was counted 131 crosses. Each told its own story. Some were at railroad crossings, some where cars had run into bridge abutments, others where a side road entered the main highway. These crosses were visible for a long distance and our party slowed down for each one out of respect for those who had gone before. This to our way of thinking, is a good idea as the most reckless driver will take warning.

STATE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT REMARKING NO. 9

A force from the State Highway Department is busy remarking State Highway No. 9 as United States Route 61. The new markings, in addition to designating the route, also informs the tourist of the presence of curves, crossroads and other points of danger. The warnings and markers are placed on the right hand side of the road, 300 feet before the place of danger.

In towns, the letter "R" or "L" is placed on a small shield beneath the large sign. Immediately at the corner are black arrows on a white background, showing the direction to proceed. At the junction where roads meet, signs are placed 300 feet before. At the junction arrows point the direction of the routes and the mileage is given to the next town of consequence.

State Highway No. 16 will not be remarked at present as the permanent route for U. S. Highway 62, has not been settled.

Max Harper will leave Tuesday for Elko, Nevada, where he will take a position with his brother.

CROWNING OF S. E. MO. QUEEN TO BE FORMAL

CUMMINS FEARS G. O. P. MAY BE THROWN ON ROCKS

Des Moines, Ia., July 14.—That President Coolidge will not be a candidate for re-election in 1928 was one of the predictions made by Senator Albert B. Cummins on his arrival here from Washington yesterday.

"One doesn't know that President Coolidge will be a candidate or that he wants to be a candidate," he said. "My own prediction is that he will not be a candidate. I think he will have had enough of it by that time. It is an immense task and few men last through it."

"I think Mr. Coolidge has been a very successful President in all but one thing", said the Senator, "and that is his policy toward agriculture".

Senator Cummins said that after his retirement next March he would write a history of his 28 years in public service.

The political upheaval in Iowa and other mid-Western states promises a prolonged period of strife, in the Republican party, which, if allowed to continue, will throw that party "on the rock", especially if the Democrats maintain their solidarity, the Senator believes.

In his opinion the present "nominal" Republican majority in the upper House of Congress may disappear with the November election.

ELECTRIC COMPANY COMES TO SIKESTON

The Chamber of Commerce at a well-attended meeting Wednesday night accepted the proposition of the Crescent Electric Company, Inc., whereby they agree to come to Sikeston. The Crescent Electric Company, Inc., is at present located at Mountain Grove, Mo., and is engaged in the manufacture of a number of electrical devices, which have a popular market. This company has felt that their isolated location at Mountain Grove, with the difficulty and expense in shipping in materials and in shipping out their product has been a serious handicap to their business. Accordingly, they determined this year, when expansion of their factory became necessary to handle their increased business, to locate in a town more accessible to the trade centers of the country.

With a view to finding a new location, H. B. Koch, president of the company, made a trip through Southeast Missouri visiting practically every town of importance. After looking over the field carefully, he came to the decision that Sikeston was the logical place for his factory to locate and he approached the Chamber of Commerce with a proposition. A committee composed of W. E. Hollingsworth, C. F. Bruton, C. E. Benton, and E. M. Schorle was appointed to go to Mountain Grove to investigate the Crescent Electrical Company, Inc. That trip was made last Wednesday, the committee being very favorably impressed with the concern. So favorably impressed, in fact, that at the meeting Wednesday night, they recommended that the Chamber of Commerce adopt the proposition offered them by the Crescent Electrical Company, Inc. That proposition was adopted and will be put over by the Chamber this week.

Mr. Koch states that the company is anxious to move to Sikeston as soon as possible and will be ready to begin work, fifteen days after the final plans are effected, which of course include the securing of a suitable building for a temporary location. The factory will employ between thirty and fifty girls at the start and will maintain a payroll which will approximate $2000 a month.

BELIEVES MEREDITH SHOULD WITHDRAW

Jefferson City, July 13.—W. T. Carrington, former State Superintendent of Public Schools, issued a statement here tonight in which he said that Willis H. Meredith should withdraw from the race for the Democratic nomination for Senator to give the drys a chance to concentrate upon Judge Ewing Cockrell.

The Missouri Anti-saloon League, which has indorsed Meredith, tried to obtain the withdrawal of Cockrell, but he refused to get out. Meredith has notified his followers that he purposes to stick.

"Cockrell would have a good chance to win the nomination if Meredith would withdraw now", said Carrington. "But with both of these dry candidates in the Democratic senatorial contest, neither can hope to win. Meredith would be doing his party a real service. Cockrell is winning new friends in this country every day. Since he was the first of these dry candidates to announce his candidacy, it seems only fair that he should be the one to make the race against Hawes".

"In making this statement I do not want to be understood as opposing Mr. Meredith".

Miss Florence Cockrell has been here several days doing organizing work among the women in behalf of her father's campaign.

BOOSTERS MADE SECOND TRIP THURSDAY AFTERNOON

The Sikeston Good Will Booster Club made the second of a series of good will tours Thursday afternoon, leaving Front Street at 1:30 for New Madrid, Lilbourn, Matthews, Canaton and Morehouse. They were accompanied by the band and they were full of enthusiasm and pep.

CAR SNUFFS OUT LIFE OF YOUNGSTER

Webster Laird, run over by W. H. McMahon at noon Wednesday on Malone Avenue, died an hour and a half later in the office of Dr. T. C. McClure. His chest had been crushed in by the wheels of the car which passed directly over his body.

Webster, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Laird, was playing with his brother in the street and parkway along Malone Avenue in front of Manos Cafe, where his mother was employed. The two were playing tag and chasing one another about, when Webster darted out into the street without looking to see if there were any cars coming. At the time there were three cars coming along the street. Webster dodged the first, but the Star car, driven by Mr. McMahon, caught him and crushed him under the wheels before McMahon could stop. McMahon was not driving fast at the time, according to witnesses and did all within his power to avert the accident.

The boy was taken at once to Dr. McClure's office, but he lived only one hour and a half. The body was taken to the undertaking parlors of H. J. Welsh, where an inquest was held by H. J. Welsh, coroner. The following report was rendered by the jury: "We, the undersigned, find that the deceased, Webster Laird, came to his death from an unavoidable accident. We completely exonerate W. H. McMahon from all blame."

The body was taken to Mrs. Laird's rooms in the Sexton Building and from there shipped Thursday to Fulton, Ky., where it will be interred in the Pinejil Cemetery.

Webster Laird was 5 years, 4 months and 12 days old and was a bright, likeable child. The Standard joins the community in sympathizing with the parents in their loss.

C. E. Cole spent Thursday in St. Louis on business.

Herman Smith and Paul Slinkard left Thursday morning on a motor trip for several days to Carthage and Springfield, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Richardson will arrive in Sikeston from Hot Springs, Ark., Friday, where they will visit with relatives of the latter. Mrs. Richardson was formerly Miss Nina Taylor.

There are more homes damaged from the recent high winds and heavy rains than there are insurance agents in Sikeston. Just a hint to those who have carried policies and have been disappointed in getting a settlement. One agent who had 48 claims in one company had everyone of them satisfactorily adjusted. Another agent had 120 claims. The first 100 visited by the adjuster, 98 were promptly settled, the other 2 will be settled and the other 20 are being considered. One agent in Sikeston wired his company that the damage was by hail and not wind and rain. This word was transmitted back to the adjusters who were on the ground and they gave what consideration was due this message after viewing the havoc. Who was the agent sending such a message, and will he continue to be the same friend to his home people?

We wonder what has happened to the Community Hall proposition? The windstorm didn't blow the building away. It's still out at the Fair Grounds. Can it be that the people of the community are not sufficiently interested to care whether we have a hall or not? Or, are they waiting for "George to do it"? We'd like to have some expression of opinion about Mr. Young's suggestion. Does the town want a community hall?

The Kroger Stores wish to make this explanation of their failure to comply with the closing agreement which they signed together with the other merchants. That operating under the supervision of the head office, it is necessary to get the consent of the general manager to their closing. That they have made every effort to get his consent which has been delayed because he has been on his vacation and it has been impossible to get a hearing from him. That just as soon as his permission can be secured, they will willingly and gladly comply with the agreement which they are heartily in accord with.

It becomes increasingly apparent to us, that the hope of the agricultural states, rest not upon the Democratic party or upon the Republican party, but upon putting in office men who will truly represent them and maintain their interests. If the voters can be induced to forget their sense of party allegiance which in most cases harks back to Civil War times and is based upon a conviction that the Republicans are all carpetbaggers, or that the Southerners are all rebels seeking to destroy the Union and see that neither party is making an effort to bring about relief but that that effort is being made by a group of men in Congress who are working together irrespective of party lines for the good of the agricultural states, then in the election this fall they can score a sweeping victory that will do more to bring about actual relief for this section than will all the Republican and Democratic election promises made in the next half century. By forgetting party, by voting for the man, irrespective of party, who will truly fight for the interests of agriculture, the voters can only make their power truly felt.

There is to be pretty keen competition in both political parties for Constable of Richland Township. Dick Hopper, living 3 miles north of Sikeston, has decided to fling his hat into the Democratic ring against W. R. Burks and Brown Jewell for the nomination. He has nothing to say against either of his opponents, but says for himself that if nominated and elected, he will promptly give service to all papers put into his hands. Furthermore, that he has never been mixed up with any law breakers and they have no strings on him, that he will serve to the best of his ability. He asks the support of the Democratic voters.

The tragic death of Webster Laird and the narrow escape of Lucille Annett from death this past week, should indelibly stamp upon the minds of parents the danger that hangs over the heads of children who play in the streets. The streets and highways are built and maintained for the use of vehicles, not as playgrounds, and with the increase of traffic that is rapidly coming about, their use as a playground becomes increasingly dangerous and parents should see to it that their children do not play in the streets.

CLUB IS FOUND IN PUBLICITY

Newspaper Real "Big Stick" in Traffic Safety Work, Says Graham.

"Constructive newspaper publicity has been one of the important factors in bettering traffic in New York," said George M. Graham, chairman of the traffic planning and safety committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

"It has pilloried the careless driver. It has published the names of those whose licenses were revoked or suspended.

"Credit, to be sure, cannot be allocated to one source.

Praise Is Due.

"Charles A. Harnett, motor vehicle commissioner, is deserving of great praise in the reduction which has come about during his administration.

"He has enforced the law rigorously.

"He has had a good law supporting him.

"He has had intelligent backing in various municipalities.

"The combination of these elements in removing the reckless driver from the highway, plus the activity of the newspapers in publishing these lists, is, we believe, one of the most helpful demonstrations in the progress of traffic control.

"Persecution of the careless driver, however deserved, would tend to bring a reaction.

"But the calm, constructive attitude of the press in simply publishing the facts, listing the persons who have lost their licenses is, I believe, one of the most potent measures that can be used.

"It is hard to enforce jail sentences and in a large city traffic lines do not have much news value. But the drivers of communities have food for sober thought when they see several hundred of their neighbors listed for revocation of licenses.

"Nobody on that list receives sympathy. The average motorist will take particular care to keep off that list.

Licenses Revoked.

"But there are other states where revocation of licenses is in effect and where tremendous, constructive effort has been exerted, without avail, to bring about reductions.

"Such cases need special analysis by the persons in charge. It may be that only a few newspapers are publishing the revocation lists. It may be that there are a number of danger places on the state highways that are causing accidents, even when the drivers are careful. There may be inadequate police patrol to check up on recklessness.

"Certain it is that if New York state with its great number of cities, its large foreign population and its great volume of tourist traffic can reduce accidents, the work of other communities earnestly working on this will in time be rewarded."

Distilled Water Quite Essential for Battery

Distilled water is, of course, absolutely essential for the storage battery. It is not always possible to procure this easily and any car owner can make his own distilled water by means of a very simple apparatus. Have a length of annealed copper tubing coiled so that it will fit in a dishpan. Connect the end of the copper tubing with an ordinary tea kettle by means of a short piece of rubber tubing. The other end of the tube is curved so that the water passing down will drip into a bottle or other container. The dishpan in which the coil rests is filled with cold water, frequently renewed to keep it cold. The water in the tea kettle is boiled and the steam so produced passes out of the spout into the tube, through the coil, where it is cooled and condensed back into water again and is finally collected for use in the bottle at the end of the copper line.

DEVICE "OUT-THINKS" MAN IN MANY CASES

A remarkable electric clock with uncanny powers has been invented by a Washington ophthalmologist, Dr. J. C. Van Slyke, who has trained it to some feats that even many humans are incapable of doing. This clock will turn on automobile parking light 15 minutes after sundown—not at five o'clock or 6 o'clock, but exactly 15 minutes after the sun has sunk below the horizon. It will turn that same parking light off at daybreak the following morning in the same mysterious way. The invention will do other remarkable things without adjustment at any time, except every four years, to account for leap year. Government horological experts are manifesting considerable interest in Doctor Van Slyke's invention.

Pedestrians Responsible for Many Auto Accidents

By W. H. Cameron, Managing Director, National Safety Council, Chicago.

Pedestrians are responsible for a great many automobile accidents. Some of them need guardians to escort them across the streets. Too many jay walkers ramble about without restraint, crossing thoroughfares where it is most convenient for them to do so, getting in the way of motorists who have the right of way and generally clogging up traffic. Very often motorists have to suddenly pull into curves to avoid striking jay walkers, endangering their own lives and property, only to be greeted with unkind words by the thoughtless pedestrians. One wonders what these careless people are thinking about when they walk in front of fast-moving traffic, without stopping, looking or listening.

Too many pedestrians do not appreciate their own responsibility but place it all on motorists. To educate them is one of our tasks, a problem that faces every safety advocate actively engaged in accident prevention work. Pedestrian traffic must be standardized and the sooner it is done the better it will be for the nation. There should be uniform laws for pedestrians just as many communities have standard traffic regulations for motorists. The burden of responsibility should not be placed upon either the motorist or the pedestrian alone, for if this is done the other will run wild. It is just as important to teach the pedestrian to keep from being hit as it is to educate the motorist from striking him. In other words, what is needed is sort of a motorist-pedestrian partnership.

"Persecution of the careless driver, however deserved, would tend to bring a reaction.

"But the calm, constructive attitude of the press in simply publishing the facts, listing the persons who have lost their licenses is, I believe, one of the most potent measures that can be used.

"It is hard to enforce jail sentences and in a large city traffic lines do not have much news value. But the drivers of communities have food for sober thought when they see several hundred of their neighbors listed for revocation of licenses.

"Nobody on that list receives sympathy. The average motorist will take particular care to keep off that list.

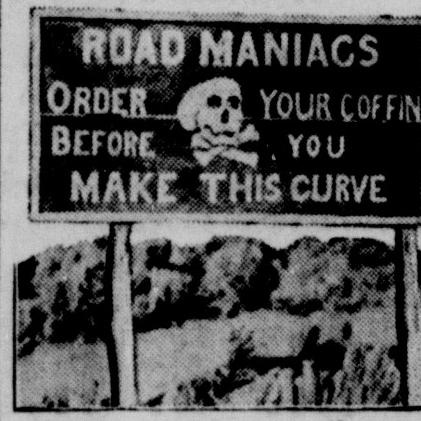

Licenses Revoked.

"But there are other states where revocation of licenses is in effect and where tremendous, constructive effort has been exerted, without avail, to bring about reductions.

"Such cases need special analysis by the persons in charge. It may be that only a few newspapers are publishing the revocation lists. It may be that there are a number of danger places on the state highways that are causing accidents, even when the drivers are careful. There may be inadequate police patrol to check up on recklessness.

"Certain it is that if New York state with its great number of cities, its large foreign population and its great volume of tourist traffic can reduce accidents, the work of other communities earnestly working on this will in time be rewarded."

Highway Sign of the Times

The residents of Parowan, Utah—on the Zion National Park highway—have had their beauty sleep disturbed so often to give first aid to the injured, after some daring driver tried to negotiate a turn on leaving town at high speed, they did this. Photograph shows the sign they had erected near the turn, as the last word in warning.

Nearly 26 Million Cars in World, Says Census

The world had 25,973,928 automotive vehicles in operation on January 1, according to figures of the Department of Commerce at Washington, compiled from a world-wide census. This total is 3,273,000 in excess of that for the year before.

While the United States predominated overwhelmingly in vehicles in operation, with 19,990,436, other countries were becoming more important factors. Great Britain had 1,474,578 machines running; France, 855,000; Canada, 727,594; Germany, 539,830; Italy, 184,700; Argentina, 181,250; Brazil, 64,950; and Russia, 78,500.

Apparently the country where the automobile is least desired is Tibet, for the search disclosed only one machine there, a motor cycle.

The January 1 total for passenger cars alone was 20,799,151, against 18,578,750 the previous year.

IN MY WAY

By Warren T. Kingsbury

Women: Kipling's famous characterization of woman as, "A rag, a bone, a hank of hair", while striking and apt is hardly at the present time all-inclusive. In fact, it makes no provision whatsoever for the dash of powder, the dab of paint, that makes a girl look what she ain't. But then Kipling wrote the, "Vampire" before the cosmetic age.

In writing of women today, I'm writing about something of which I know nothing. Experience with several of the weaker sex has convinced me of that. Therefore in essaying this subject, I have sort of a "fool's rush in where angels fear to tread" feeling. Which necessitates an explanation of my dealing with this topic when there are so many other subjects I know more about with which I might deal. A woman asked me to write about women. And, as is the case always, when a woman smiles at me and gives me one of those gentle looks, I couldn't bear to refuse her, so here you are.

I might of course give you the pronouncements of the village sheiks in regard to the fair sex. They freely and boldly admit that what there is to know about women, they know. Maybe they do, but it's my personal opinion that if they do they're far wiser than their forefathers. They each have their formula for getting along with the ladies. There is the "treat 'em rough and make 'em like it" type. There is the lad with the looks of an Arrow collar ad, then there is the boy with a "line". And speaking of lines, I never yet have seen a lady who didn't love to be flattered. It makes no difference whether she is an infant in the cradle or a grey-haired old grandmother, the dearest words to her ears are those which tell of her charms. They all deny it, but it's the truth, nevertheless. I've seen lots of baby girls whose voices were raised to the high heavens with shrieks and screams, quiet down to a gurgling laugh of contentment as soon as some small male would start talking about what a lovely little baby she was. And I've seen the roughest and most crabbed old matrons burst forth like the sun in April, all radiant smiles, when some youth, one-third her age, told her what a truly handsome and beautiful lady she was. Yes, they like it.

There's just one thing certain about a woman. You know that you never know just what she will do. That seems to be women's prerogative, an inalienable right to change her mind, when, where and in whatever manner she may deem proper. And she sure does it. If you don't believe it, just ride with or drive along behind some of our local women drivers. They may be driving calmly along down the street, when some whim causes them to wish to turn and they do turn regardless. Stop signs are nothing to them. Neither are curbs. Their favorite manner of driving seems to be a process of powdering their nose with one hand while they point out the most adorable little hat in a shop window with the other. No wonder so many husbands go to the sanitarians with nervous prostration.

Another fact about women is that the average woman will talk more and say less in fifteen minutes than the average man can in fifteen days. Sometimes what they have to say becomes interesting. That is, when they begin to tell the intimate gossip (gore, I like to call it, because it's usually the life blood pouring from the wounds of some family) they seem to have an uncanny faculty for collecting. I've often thought that women should make the best newspaper reporters in the world, but the trouble is, they can't keep anything to themselves long enough to publish a paper so by the time the papers out they've told everybody all about it anyway.

There is something of the dramatic about women. They are all actors. They are all effecting a pose of some sort and trying to put it across upon the poor innocent males. There is the girl who acts the part of the clinging vine, and loves to hang on to the arm of her great, big, strong man. "Oh", as one of our local youths was told, "You great, wonderful man. So big and strong, you must play football". Then there is the athletic type of girl, who disfigures any dependence on man. She will hike you to death, swim you to a point of exhaustion, and then dance all night with you until you're so tired it takes a week to recover. There is the sophisticated type, who glories in a sirenish look, a hair cut, an amazing application of cosmetics and who funnels her liquor, is lost without cigarettes, and who is possessed of an amazing assortment of risque stories and epithets that would shock a trooper. Then there is the sweet, modest, shy young thing, affecting extreme innocence. Oh, there are all kinds of types. In fact, every woman is really a type to herself. There are just points where they approach a similarity. But they all are acting and posing in the manner which they think most attractive to the eyes of mankind.

One other thing which impresses me, is the truth of the statement someone made that "Hell has no fury like a woman scorned". I've seen lots of angry men, but of all the dangerous people I've ever seen, an honest to goodness, angry woman is the most dangerous of the lot. Yes, sir. Kipling certainly knew his women when he said, "The female of the species is more deadly than the male". And before I go too far and stir some to violence, I stop.

MARSHALL-NORTHENGTON

Mr. and Mrs. (Mary Elizabeth Marshall) Billy Northengton, who were married last Saturday morning in Clarksville, Tenn., will make their home in Guthrie, Ky., for the present at least.

Mr. Northengton comes from one of the most prominent families of Guthrie and is one of the most respected young men of the town. He is one of a family of six, the family home being one of the finest old Southern mansions in the State, located two and a half miles out of Guthrie. Mr. Northengton is manager of a store in Guthrie, owned by his family, and he and his wife will make their home in an apartment in that town.

The couple made the acquaintance of one another this summer while Miss Marshall was visiting Miss Virginia Sodini in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Mr. Northengton was visiting a brother at that place and out of the meeting grew the romance. Mrs. Northengton is the daughter of Mrs. Florence Marshall of this city and was quite prominent among social circles. She had attended Monticello Seminary at Godfrey, Ind., the past year and was planning to enter National Park Seminary this fall. In certain parts of the South every body eats dinner at midday and then takes a nap.

Business is practically suspended for a couple of hours.

Especially is this true of the summer season.

A Northern travelling man in a small town not far from where I was born and reared needed a lead pencil. Nobody around the little hotel seemed to have one to spare. The time was just after midday and the weather was sultry. He walked down the deserted main street until he came to a general store. A gentleman in his shirt sleeves, evidently the proprietor, was tilted back in a chair against the front door, taking a nap.

The stranger shook him by the shoulder, at first gently, then forcibly. The sleeper broke a snore short off and opened one heavy eye.

"Well?" he said, drowsily.

"I want to buy a lead pencil," said the traveling man. "a good five-cent lead pencil."

"Got no lead pencils," murmured the proprietor thickly, as his eyes closed again.

"Why, I can see a whole showcase full of them right behind you," protested the traveler.

The proprietor started to rise. Then inspiration came to him.

"Oh, them?" he said. "Them ain't for sale!" and went right back to sleep.

America Leads Nations In Use Of Ice Cream

If any one food may be considered as America's national dish, it is ice cream.

Ice cream is a food particularly adapted to the needs of individuals of all ages, giving as it does the best type of nutrients for the repair of bone, teeth, blood and muscles and for energy.

Today thousands of housewives make their own ice cream. As a consequence, the making of this highly nutritious food at a reduced cost, yet without in any way impairing the product, is of importance.

Home economists have found a means to this end in the use of evaporated milk. There are three important reasons why evaporated milk makes the best ice cream, they point out. Because 60 per cent of the natural water in evaporated milk has been removed by evaporation, there is over twice the percentage of solids present in this type of milk than there is in ordinary market milk—and, since it is the solids that give ice cream its pleasing flavor, this fact is of moment.

Then, the composition of evaporated milk is constant, for the reason that it has been put through an homogenizing process, which breaks up the fat globules into tiny particles and distributes them evenly throughout the milk. This attribute makes for an ice-cream mixture of uniform quality and fine texture.

Finally, experts agree that the use of evaporated milk in ice cream contributes to its hygienic qualities, for the reason that evaporated milk is entirely sterile. Health authorities declare that milk and cream should be treated to a heat of 150 degrees F. for half an hour in order that a product may be produced free from infective organisms. Evaporated milk is processed at 240 degrees for 30 minutes, and, therefore, its introduction into an ice-cream mixture increases its purity in proportion to the amount of evaporated milk used.

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE

Washington, D. C., July 10--Just before President Coolidge left for his vacation in the Adirondacks, he held a farewell conference with the newspaper correspondents, disguised as usual as the "White House Spokesman". He said nice things to the correspondents about themselves and about Congress, asserting that Congress had passed everything the President wanted passed.

Now that was a broad statement for the "Spokesman" to make. He seemed to have been seized with an aggravated attack of forgetfulness. Maybe it was the heat which caused him to get that way. Or perhaps he forgot the things Congress did not do as the result of his desire to get away from here as soon as possible and "keep cool with Coolidge". The fact is that Congress rejected more Coolidge proposals than it approved.

Coolidge Proposals Passed by Congress

Here is the list of Coolidge proposals approved by Congress and enacted into law:

Entrance of the United States into the World Court, the revenue bill, the lump sum budgeting appropriations leaving to the Secretary of the Treasury the question of where and how they should be spent, the co-operative marketing bill and the railroad labor bill. These are the pieces of legislation which the "Spokesman" bragged about.

Coolidge Proposals Rejected by Congress

Here is the list of important Coolidge proposals which Congress rejected:

The Tincher farm bill, defeated in the House; the Fess farm bill, voted down in the Senate; the radio bill conferring authority over the air to the Secretary of Commerce; the sale of Muscle Shoals to the Alabama Power Company; coal legislation; change of the status of the Shipping Board so as to make that body responsible to the President instead of to Congress; Lincoln C. Andrews various bills for putting teeth into the Volstead Act; the railroad consolidation bill; the appointment of Wallace McCamant of Oregon, who nominated Mr. Coolidge for Vice-President, to a federal job; the appointment of William J. Tilson, brother of the Republican Floor leader of the House, as U. S. District Judge in Georgia, and the appointments of Edward Brossard and Sherman J. Lowell to the Tariff Commission. The President's last act before leaving, however, was to give Mr. Tilson, Mr. Brossard and Mr. Lowell recess appointments.

Congress Actually Accomplished Little

The two chief accomplishments of Congress to which Mr. Coolidge points with special pride are the passage of the revenue bill and the World Court resolution. But, it is pointed out, both became law thru bipartisan support. A Democrat led the fight in the Senate for the World Court and many Democratic principles were incorporated in the revenue bill which were the most distasteful to the President and Secretary Mellon.

As to the other "accomplishments" of Congress--the lump sum budgeting system will only serve to increase the powers of the Secretary of the Treasury; everybody voted for the co-operative marketing bill, feeling that it would accomplish nothing but would not hurt anybody; and the railroad bill actually was nothing more than a ratification of an agreement between the carriers and their employees.

So after seven months of wrangling, it develops that the past Congress was a do-nothing-Congress. No one except the President and a few other Republican leaders have been bold enough to claim that anything of consequence was accomplished.

G. O. P. Must Stand the Blame

Floor leader Tilson told the House just before adjournment since die that the Republican party must be responsible for everything done or not done by Congress. He said, "Inasmuch as we are responsible for everything with which fault may be found and must bear the responsibility for it, by the same token we must claim the principal credit for the good things that may have been done".

In replying to the farewell speech of the Majority leader, Minority leader Finis Garret, said, "As for public matters I have only to say that my party is content to rest for its appeal to the country this autumn upon the record which has been made here. We have not been able to initiate; we have not been able to prevent. Only at rare intervals have we been able to amend. We have served, as we sought to serve, the proper functions of a minority party".

"There are differences between the parties that are deep and fundamental. We shall go before the people again this fall and present our case in the earnest hope and in the belief that that appeal is not to fall on deaf ears and that the next Congress is to witness a difference in political control".

A hog will find shade in hot weather if he can, but if the shady place he finds is also hot, he does not seem to realize it, and will stay there and die from overheating. For this reason it is best to close any buildings that are not cool forcing the hogs to get shade elsewhere. The natural shade from trees is preferable to any other. If trees are not available, a good artificial shade should be made by setting posts and building a cheap framework about four-feet from the ground, covering it with brush, hay, or straw. A shade of this kind is better than one made of boards or sheet iron. If dust accumulates on the covering should be made wet by watering with a hose or bucket. This will serve the double purpose of cooling the air and settling the dust.

150 HEAR U. S.
SENATOR WILLIAMSOIL PROSPECTS
CALLED GOOD

One hundred and fifty persons braved the damp coldness of Tuesday night to listen to Senator Williams in Malone Park. Their bravery was well rewarded for Senator Williams is an excellent speaker and a man of pleasing personality. He was introduced by Congressman Ralph Bailey, who in few words, told of the accomplishments of the Senator in the Senate and of the impression he had made upon his colleagues as a skilled and able legislator.

Senator Williams in his address stressed three main points, Farm Relief, his opposition to the World Court, and Law Enforcement. In speaking of his vote for the McNary-Haugen Farm measure, he explained the measure, the principle upon which it would work, which, so he asserts is that of protective tariff and then stated that he pledged himself to the furtherance of farm relief. He announced himself as irrevocably opposed to the World Court and in utter accord with the platform of the Republican party declaring for law enforcement.

In closing his address, he directed a very plausible attack upon Proctor outlining the position Proctor has taken in opposition to himself. He then made mention of the fact that the Republican State Platform is formed after the primary election by the candidates for Congress and the Senate and that the present congressman and himself had come to an agreement on the fundamental principles of Republicanism which, in the primary campaign Proctor was attacking, and that it might be embarrassing to the latter were he nominated to have to subscribe to those principles against which he had declared himself. He also questioned Proctor's sincerity in regard to prohibition, accusing him of seeking the wet vote of St. Louis by making a plea on the following grounds: "Mr. Proctor told the people of St. Louis that Senator Reed was one of the ablest debaters and parliamentarians in the United States, but even he had not been able to bring about a repeal of the eighteenth amendment or to liberalize the Volstead act. In that connection Mr. Proctor said neither he nor any other legislator will be able to do so. If Mr. Proctor knows that neither Senator Reed nor any other legislator will be able to change the eighteenth amendment or to cancel the Volstead law, then what is he talking about and why is he making an appeal to the good Christian people of the State of Missouri? The sincerity of that statement by Mr. Proctor should be proof enough of the character of the campaign he is making."

He also attacked Mr. Proctor's record as State Senator when he voted against the prohibition enforcement law and failed to vote for the amendment granting women the right to vote.

From Sikeston, Senator Williams went to Poplar Bluff speaking there on Wednesday night. Thursday night he spoke in Mountain Grove, Friday night in Springfield and Saturday night in Carthage.

THREE YEAR OLD
GIRL RUN OVER BY CAR

Lucille Arnett, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Arnett, was run over at the corner of Scott and Trotter Streets, Sunday afternoon by J. W. Wilkins. The child was knocked down by the bumper, the car passing completely over her body which fortunately was not touched by any of the wheels. A bad cut behind her left ear, a light scalp wound and bruises were the only injuries sustained.

Mr. Wilkins was driving along very slowly and did not see the child at all, as he was watching out for a group of children playing about in the street. Lucille had started to cross the street and did not see the car coming. Her mother, who was sitting on the front porch of a neighbor's house across the street, saw the child in the path of the car and shouted to her. Lucille was startled, looking in all directions, and then ran directly in the path of the car. Mr. Wilkins was in no way to blame, according to the mother.

Miss Helen Doherty and brother, Billy, of Kansas City are visiting their uncle, A. C. Barrett, on North Kingshighway.

It is expected that sufficient enthusiasm will be aroused at this meeting to insure the success of the new organization.

UNION SERVICES AT PARK
PROVING POPULAR

The large increase in attendance at the Union Services in Malone Park last Sunday evening indicates that the people of Sikeston are pleased with them. Rev. John O. Ensor of the Methodist Church, faced a very attentive and interested audience as he preached with enthusiasm on "The Way Out Of Trouble". It was a timely and helpful message. Those who have heard Rev. Ensor like to hear him again. He has an evangelistic passion to point men to the better life that is to be highly commended. Those who have been attending these services are becoming enthusiastic advertisers. After all, a satisfied customer is the best kind of an advertisement. Come and be convinced.

"The Devil's Three Attempts to Destroy the Church" is the subject of the sermon to be delivered by Rev. E. B. Hensley, pastor of the Christian Church, next Sunday evening at 8:00 o'clock. This sermon undertakes to account for the presence of some things in the church that have been a puzzle to many. If the story of the struggle between the Church and the Devil is not familiar to you, hear this sermon.

In our first two services, the seats have been well filled, and we noted that many went away for lack of seats. Our seating capacity will be greatly increased next Sunday evening and for future services. Come early.

Miss Margaret Woods, C. L. Blanton, Jr., Louis Scott, Bill Smith, Dick Stubbs, Roy Smith and Irving Cox attended the dance at Portageville on Tuesday night.

The issuance of a new schedule for boats operating between Cairo and Birds Point by the county court of Mississippi County Wednesday, is believed to have averted a repetition of the ferry war that caused so much inconvenience to tourists last summer and in some cases resulted in near-accidents. The addition of a second boat, the Pilgrim, by the Tri-State Ferry Company, occasioned the outburst of rivalry among the operators early this week.

The court issued a schedule that will give regular service every half-hour between the hours of 5:30 a.m. and 1:45 a.m. Violation of this schedule by the operators will result in revocation of licenses, the court ordered.

A wharf master has been stationed at the landing at Birds Point to see that the schedule is strictly enforced. His salary was ordered paid by the ferries, which will be charged $30 a month for maintenance of the service by the county court.

In order to make the regulation of traffic easier and to keep boats from staying at the landing longer than their allotted time, traffic arms will be placed on the incline to be lowered when each boat's time has expired.

Five boats are now operating between Cairo and Birds Point. The Tri-State Ferry Company operates the Tourist and the Pilgrim, while the Cairo City Ferry Company operates the Kiwanis, Cary Bird and the Three States.—Cape Missourian.

LAND BEING DEPLETED
BY CONTINUOUS CROPPING

The system of continuous cropping, which has been employed in Southeast Missouri ever since the land has been in cultivation, is rapidly depleting the soil of its natural fertility, according to C. F. Bruton, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. A man's farm is like his bank account, says Mr. Bruton. If he puts $1600 in the bank and keeps checking out without putting anything in, some day he will get a notice from the bank that he is overdrawn. Likewise, with his farm, if he keeps continually cropping the land without adding anything to it, he depletes the fertility and some year he will have a crop failure which will be his notice that his land account is overdrawn.

The best way to prevent this, says Mr. Bruton, is dairy farming, a type of farming which is being successfully practiced by Greer and Turner, John Reiss and the Hebbeler Bros. If enough farmers could be induced to take up dairying, it would be a simple manner to establish a creamery here to take care of the cream and the skim milk could be utilized as feed for hogs. And the farmer would have a steady income of cash money coming in to him from his cows.

While the leading agricultural authorities of the country are advocating dairying and truck farming as the solution to the farming problem, there is also a Biblical foundation for dairying, the Lord telling Abraham when he started out, to keep up the fertility of the soil with livestock.

Buddy Matthews and Linn Smith spent the week-end in Arlington, Ky., as the guests of Miss Dorothy Lillard.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Bailey left on Thursday for Oxford, Ind., where they will spend the next two weeks visiting.

Mrs. Emma Kendall, Mrs. Wallace Applegate and Mrs. Paul Anderson drove to the pottery in Stoddard County, Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Malone and daughter, Miss Sara, were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Bahn and family of Cape Girardeau Tuesday night.

Dr. and Mrs. De Anderson left on Wednesday for their home in California, after several weeks in this city with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Fowler.

The Chillicothe Business College last week placed another accountant in the Little Rock office in the Pierce Petroleum Corporation making six of its recent graduates employed in this office.

The large ditch digging machine which the Rowan-Rickards Construction Company has had at work on the sewer ditches here in Sikeston, broke down last Thursday and was idle Friday and Saturday, while new parts were being secured. Work was resumed at noon Monday.

The Standard wishes to state that Mr. Courtney, who is now conducting a Booster Campaign for some of our merchants and all of Sikeston, is the same Mr. Courtney who put over the big sale for the Baker-Bowman Hardware Co. several months ago and who has been engaged by the Fair Directors to handle a popularity contest for the Southeast Missouri District Fair this fall. When he first came to our city, he came highly recommended as a business man and gentleman and the success he met with on the Baker-Bowman sale was a guarantee of his business ability.

He is running no skin game and will run none, and the confidence of the public can be placed in him. This is printed without the knowledge of Mr. Courtney and to offset the grumblings of a man who was disappointed in securing a little batch of printing and is endeavoring to disparage the work of Mr. Courtney.

Congratulations to Mayor Fuchs for giving orders to have prisoners work out their sentences on the streets. With the sewer system being installed the streets were never in such rough condition, but with the aid of jail birds who have been laying out their fines in jail, much needed work can be done for the cost of boarding the prisoner.

By some strange oversight our worthy cotemporary failed to include in his report of the Republican meeting held in Sikeston last week, the fact that the meeting endorsed Williams up one side and down the other, and he is supposed to be running a Republican paper and to be a good Republican himself.

AMERICA ONE HUNDRED

New York, July 12, 1776.—The king's navy today joined his army and is anchored off Staten Island. With it came more transports and more soldiers on the mission of peace. The admiral of the fleet is Lord Richard Howe, brother of General William Howe the military commander. Lord Howe comes, so they say, not as a fighting sailor, but as his majesty's official peace commissioner duly delegated to tell these United States how they can restore themselves in the good will of the British ministry and then secure—well nobody knows yet what Lord Howe has to offer. And until he offers it nobody is going to assume that the offer will be satisfactory.

The first naval maneuver of the enemy after Lord Howe's arrival—immediately after, in fact—was the sending of two warships up the North River to the highlands of Hudson's River for the purpose of cutting off Washington's communications by the river with Albany, and the American army, which has recently retreated from Canada to Crown Point. Two enemy ships could easily accomplish this, since General Washington has no warships to match theirs. The British ships may also have carried soldiers below deck who will land somewhere along the river to threaten land communications.

Avaling themselves of a brisk and favorable breeze with a flowing tide, the British ships successfully ran our batteries on the New York City waterfront and at Paulus Hook on the Jersey side. Notwithstanding a heavy and incessant cannonade from both shores, the Britishers got by without sustaining any damage that could be observed from the shore. Nor did their big guns which they kept busy as they sailed by do harm to the batteries. However, the enemy had the better of the argument, since the Americans failed to prevent their passage up the river.

Gen. George Clinton commands the New York militia along Hudson's River. General Washington has ordered him to assemble as large a force as possible at Anthony's Nose and to send an express to the western parts of Connecticut to call out their militia. General Clinton had anticipated this order by mobilizing three regiments of militia and stationing them at Newburg, Ft. Montgomery and Ft.

In making pickles the best cover for the surface consists of a circular board about one inch in thickness and two inches less in diameter than the inside of the receptacle in which it is used. The best covers are made of oak or other hardwoods—never yellow or pitch pine. Before use dip in melted paraffin and then burn over with a flame.

Milk utensils should be rinsed in cold water immediately after they have been used, before the milk has had time to dry upon them, then washed thoroughly in hot water to which soda or some washing powder has been added. Brushes are preferable to cloths for washing dairy utensils, as they are more easily kept clean and do better work. After washing, the utensils must be rinsed and sterilized. A good way to sterilize them is to immerse in boiling water for at least two minutes or subject them to live steam for the same length of time. The most effective method is to put them into a tight closed thoroughly sterilized with steam.

Remove utensils while hot so they will dry from their own heat. Keep the vessels in an averted position in a clean place, free from dust, flies,

XENOPHON CAVERNO

HEADLIGHT FARM
CANALOU, MISSOURI
NEW MARSH COUNTY

July 13, 1926

To the Farm Bureau Members of Southeast Missouri:

I wish I could "stump" this congressional district before the primary, not for any party, not for any candidate, but for the farmer himself.

I have been in the thick of the fight for farm relief at Washington and I should like to tell the farmers of this district the whole story. In this short letter I can only give a few facts and a few conclusions and let you take them for what they are worth without the whole story and without argument.

1. Capital and labor, all the big interests, will vote for their friends without regard to party. The farmer is the only voter who is expected to vote according to party name, party prejudice, or party platform.

2. Both parties repudiated the farm relief planks of their platforms.

3. The number of members in both houses who gave active, intelligent support to farm relief legislation was very small. They belonged to both parties. They fought the battle on the floor of congress. They sat in the conferences of the "Farm Lobby". They were our friends and advisors and we were theirs. Together we cemented the friendship of the farmers, north and south; together we shook the strangle hold of the industrial east.

4. We farmers need more representatives of this kind. We have one, and one only, as a candidate for congress in this district who falls in this class. He has the education, he has the experience, he has the courage, he has the quickness of brain, that will put him at once into the councils of the farm leaders at Washington, both on and off the floor of the House.

5. The candidate I refer to is Thad Snow of Charleston. He represents the best type of American farming. He lives on a farm. He works on a farm with both hand and brain, but his interests are as wide as the world. I have known him for a dozen years; have worked with him on all kinds of organization; have discussed politics and economics, both domestic and foreign; capital and labor; "wet and dry". I would rather have him represent me in congress than any other man in the district. He will not represent farming in any narrow sense. He will use his vote and his influence to give to the men and women who work with their hands and their brains a larger share of the value they produce on the farm, in the shop, on the railroad, in the office, in the store.

6. There is no one remedy for the farmer's troubles. Double the tariff, cut it in two, or abolish it, and the farmer would still be at a disadvantage. Legislation for economic opportunity is obtained by TRADING and FIGHTING in congress. These things cannot be done effectively by proxy. Lawyers' speeches, either on the stump or in congress, will not get the farmer anywhere. Even VOTING right is not enough.

7. If the tragedy of American farming is to be burned into the conscience of congress it must be done by men who have LIVED the tragedy. If the farmer is to get legislation which will give him equal opportunity with other interests, based on his voting power and the value of his service rendered, he must go and get it himself.

8. Secretary Mellon has stated the issue. It is "shall the American farmer be compelled to furnish cheap food and raw materials for the American manufacturer or shall he be allowed to live on the American level?"

9. No district in the United States has a better opportunity to smash home the answer than this. This is not MY job, nor is it THAD SNOW'S job, any more than it is YOURS. It is up to you to get out and work and TALK and get the message across to your neighbor.

Sincerely yours,

XENOPHON CAVERNO.

The Best Is None Too Good

AROUND THE WORLD IN TWENTY-ONE DAYS

Washington is noted for her wonderful drives as well as for her imposing Government buildings. One of the prettiest is through the Mall out by the Washington monument, the Tidal Basin to the Lincoln Memorial. The Japanese Government sent the cherry trees from Japan to be placed along the drives of the Tidal Basin and in cherry blossom time it is beautiful and the fragrance of the blooms fill the air.

The next drive of importance is through Rock Creek Park where the National Zoo is located. This is a natural park with cliffs, hills and valleys with the waters of Rock Creek winding through it. Follows Arlington, the National Soldiers' Home, and many lesser drives.

The Blanton family lived for sixteen years in the village of Falls Church, Va., some ten miles west, one of the prettiest little towns surrounding Washington. Six of our children were born in this village, where we owned a home. Of course this place held many memories for us, some pleasant, others unpleasant. Several trips were made to this point and a very pleasant evening spent with our next door neighbor, Mrs. R. C. L. Moncure, and her fine son, Richard. Mrs. Moncure was one of the best neighbors imaginable and she and her family were very close to us.

The visit to our old home brought us in contact with many acquaintances who seemed glad to see us again, and for our part we were pleased to meet them.

In this village is one of the old Episcopal Churches of Virginia, built before the Revolutionary War, and George Washington was a vestryman and frequently attended church there.

Wednesday before noon, having exhausted our allotted leave, H. C. the editor, Ralph and John Bailey turned our faces westward and for home.

Just before reaching Frederick, Md., some 60 miles from Washington, we passed the home of Gen. Bradley T. Johnson of Confederate fame. It was a mansion fit for the home of any man. Frederick had changed little in the twenty years since we were there as a representative of the Supervising Architects office to attend the funeral of Louis Moberly, an employee of the Department and our assistant.

COMMON FOODS

For a sandwich filling the following is one that may be easily made of materials usually plentiful:

Pressed Egg and Ham Sandwiches. — Chop fine six hard-cooked eggs, one green onion and one-half of a green pepper. Mix with one-half teaspoonful of salt and one tablespoonful of prepared mustard. Place half the mixture in a small greased pan, press down and add a layer of chopped ham, using one and one-half cupfuls; finish with the rest of the egg mixture and pour over two tablespoons of soup stock. Let stand to chill and become firm.

Onion Sandwiches. — Chop fine a large Southern onion, mix with French dressing and spread on buttered bread and serve for supper sandwiches with a cup of tea or cocoa. Chopped carrot with onion and a little mayonnaise makes another very good filling. Vary with chopped celery added, or taking the place of the onion.

Curried Eggs. — Cook six eggs in the shell until hard, using three quarts of boiling water poured over them, then cover tightly and let stand one-half hour on the back of the stove. They will be well cooked without being tough, provided the eggs were of the room temperature when put to cook. Remove the shells and cut the eggs into halves. Fry a teaspoonful of onion in a tablespoonful of butter, add one tablespoonful of cornstarch, or two of flour, mixed with half a tablespoonful of curry powder. Pour over one and one-half cupfuls of good stock, cream or milk. Simmer until well cooked, add the eggs and serve on toast with the sauce poured over the eggs and toast.

Corn Flake Dainties. — Take two cupfuls of corn flakes, one cupful of coconut, one egg white well beaten, a speck of salt, a half teaspoonful of vanilla and one cupful of sugar. To the beaten egg add the sugar, then corn flakes, coconut and other ingredients. Drop by spoonfuls on a baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven. Other kinds of nuts may be used if coarsely chopped.

It was in Frederick that lived Barbary Fritchie around which a poet weaved a poem about the flag and gray head. This was but a dream, though Barbary Fritchie was a real being and the Confederate soldiers did pass through the city, but not by her house.

A short distance to the north of Frederick was the birthplace of Admiral Schley, who won the naval battle of Santiago, Cuba, and sunk the Spanish fleet. It was the pleasure of the editor to sit in a loge in Washington when Admiral Schley was made a Master Mason. Towards the middle of the afternoon we passed thru Hagerstown and on to the battlefield of Gettysburg, where the Confederate Army was repulsed and started on their retreat to the Shenandoah Valley. After one sees this battlefield, it seems incredible that such men as the Confederate Generals were, would give battle on such a field, that seemed to us to be almost impregnable. The high tide of the Confederate advance was marked by a monument. It was contended by Southern leaders that if General Longstreet had moved his Division at the hour the orders called for, the tide of battle would have turned to a victory instead of defeat.

Glory does not win battles, if so, the charge of Pickett's Division of Virginia regulars would have carried the day, as they cut through the Federal Army and back to their old lines with a loss of 60 per cent. A concentrated cross-fire of the Federal batteries and infantry was so withering that the North Carolina troops could not follow and give support. On this field of battle the soldiers of old Virginia proved their valor by never flinching. It was the beginning of the end as Lee and his Generals fought a series of retreating battles until they were worn and starved to surrender.

Back from Gettysburg to Hagerstown for the night and an early start Thursday morning. Hagerstown is one of the northern tiers of counties in Maryland and is situated in one of the finest farming countries in the United States. Fine homes, fine barns, big orchards, big dairy herds, big flocks of poultry and all houses and barns painted in high order. Hagerstown has the biggest District Fair and Poultry Show held any place in the United States during the month of October. It is not unusual to have 5000 entries in the poultry department alone. In our younger days we were a visitor to the Hagerstown Fair for a number of years, met many poultry fanciers from Canada and the New England States, and saw a few "chickens". When we were in our poultry prime, we were called on at a banquet where several hundred chicken men and women were seated, to make a talk about poultry in Virginia. We never could remember just what we said, as it was in the good old days. Anyway, some Canadian fanciers at Madison Square Garden poultry show later in the winter called on us to finish the speech we started at Hagerstown.

From Hagerstown to Frostburg, Md., was one orchard after another and on one of the highest points of this range of the Allegheny Mountains were several large apple orchards in full bloom. The altitude was more than 2000 feet and being so far north all flowers and vegetation was late. In fact lilac and apple blossoms had disappeared in Southeast Missouri before we left home and to see the oak trees just beginning to put forth the first leaves, with lilac and fresh apple blossoms made it seem like a different country sure enough. We encountered dogwood bloom by the acre in this part of the mountains and close by were acres of chestnut trees that had been killed by a disease or blight. At one point was cut through the forests of the mountains a line of demarcation known as Mason and Dixon Line, that is an imaginary line along the latitude that divides the North and South. This line was crossed several times along the border of Maryland and Pennsylvania. Before reaching Washington, Pa., from Frostburg, we stopped by the roadside, where General Braddock was killed during the war between the English and Americans on one side and the French and Indians on the other. A large monument marks the spot and it is surrounded by a clump of tall cedars. It will be recalled that General Braddock, in charge of British regulars that landed at Alexandria, Va., with George Washington and his Colonials, started through the wilderness to Ft. Duquesne, now Pittsburgh, to capture that place from the French and Indians, when he was ambushed by the Indians and many of the British massacred. It will be remembered too, that Washington counseled General Braddock not to march with his bands playing, but to send out scouts and to fight behind trees as did the Indians. Gen. Braddock censured Washington for this, and when the Indians fell on the British all would have been killed if Washington and his Colonials had not covered their

CUMMINS FEARS G. O. P. MAY BE THROWN ON ROCKS

Des Moines, Ia., July 14.—That President Coolidge will not be a candidate for re-election in 1928 was one of the predictions made by Senator Albert B. Cummins on his arrival here from Washington yesterday.

"One doesn't know that President Coolidge will be a candidate or that he wants to be a candidate", he said. "My own prediction is that he will not be a candidate. I think he will have had enough of it by that time. It is an immense task and few men last through it."

"I think Mr. Coolidge has been a very successful President in all but one thing", said the Senator, "and that is his policy toward agriculture".

Senator Cummins said that after his retirement next March he would write a history of his 28 years in public service.

The political upheaval in Iowa and other mid-Western states presages a prolonged period of strife, in the Republican party, which, if allowed to continue, will throw that party "on the rock", especially if the Democrats maintain their solidarity, the Senator believes. In his opinion the present "nominal" Republican majority in the upper House of Congress may disappear with the November election.

Jefferson City, July 13.—W. T. Carrington, former State Superintendent of Public Schools, issued a statement here tonight in which he said that Willis H. Meredith should withdraw from the race for the Democratic nomination for Senator to give the drys a chance to concentrate upon Judge Ewing Cockrell.

The Missouri Anti-saloon League, which has endorsed Meredith, tried to obtain the withdrawal of Cockrell, but he refused to get out. Meredith has notified his followers that he purposes to stick.

"Cockrell would have a good chance to win the nomination if Meredith would withdraw now", said Carrington. "But with both of these dry candidates in the Democratic senatorial contest, neither can hope to win. Meredith would be doing his party a real service. Cockrell is winning new friends in this county every day. Since he was the first of these dry candidates to announce his candidacy, it seems only fair that he should be the one to make the race against Hawes".

"In making this statement I do not want to be understood as opposing Mr. Meredith".

Miss Florence Cockrell has been here several days doing organizing work among the women in behalf of her father's campaign.

ELECTRIC COMPANY COMES TO SIKESTON

The Chamber of Commerce at a well-attended meeting Wednesday night accepted the proposition of the Crescent Electric Company, Inc., whereby they agree to come to Sikeston. The Crescent Electric Company, Inc., is at present located at Mountain Grove, Mo., and engaged in the manufacture of a number of electrical devices, which have a popular market. This company has felt that their isolated location at Mountain Grove, with the difficulty and expense in shipping in materials and in shipping out their product has been a serious handicap to their business. Accordingly, they determined this year, when expansion of their factory became necessary to handle their increased business, to locate in a town more accessible to the trade centers of the country.

With a view to finding a new location, H. B. Koch, president of the company, made a trip through Southeast Missouri visiting practically every town of importance. After looking over the field carefully, he came to the decision that Sikeston was the logical place for his factory to locate and he approached the Chamber of Commerce with a proposition. A committee composed of W. E. Hollingsworth, C. F. Bruton, C. E. Breton, and E. M. Schorle was appointed to go to Mountain Grove to investigate the Crescent Electrical Company, Inc. That trip was made last Wednesday, the committee being very favorably impressed with the concern. So favorably impressed, in fact, that at the meeting Wednesday night, they recommended that the Chamber of Commerce adopt the proposition offered them by the Crescent Electrical Company, Inc. That proposition was adopted and will be put over by the Chamber this week.

Mr. Koch states that the company is anxious to move to Sikeston as soon as possible and will be ready to begin work, fifteen days after the final plans are effected, which of course include the securing of a suitable building for a temporary location. The factory will employ between thirty and fifty girls at the start and will maintain a payroll which will approximate $2000 a month.

Everybody likes nesselrode pudding; here is one that isn't so much work to prepare:

Nesselrode Pudding.—Make a custard of three cupfuls of milk, one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt and four egg yolks; cook until creamy, strain and cool; add one pint of thin cream, one-fourth cupful of pineapple syrup and one-half cupfuls of blanched and soft chestnuts; put through a sieve. Turn a two-quart melon mold with part of the

to the remainder add one-half cupful of candied fruit cut into small pieces, one-fourth cupful of sultana raisins, eight chestnuts coarsely chopped and soaked over night in maraschino syrup (several hours will do) or other fruit syrup if the cherry is not at hand. Fill the mold, cover, pack in salt and ice and let stand two hours. Serve with whipped cream, flavored with a maraschino syrup.

Bouillabaisse.—This dish was served originally with several varieties of fish, but with us any fine-grained fresh fish will answer. Allow three pounds of fished fish. Mince two onions and one parsnip cut fine and fry them a light brown. Add two large tomatoes, half a teaspoonful of powdered saffron, bit of garlic, the juice of a lemon and a bayleaf, with a few sprigs of parsley. Add one quart of boiling water and a cupful of white grapejuice, cover closely and simmer twenty minutes. Place diced toasted bread in the soup tureen, pour in the fish and soup and serve hot.

Swiss Hamburger.—Take a pound of hamburger and mix with one-third of a cupful of flour, add salt, pepper, onion and make into small cakes, roll in flour and brown in hot fat. Add water or soup stock and cook slowly on the back of the stove for two hours.

Greens in Ramekins.—Take chopped greens, add egg, grated cheese and buttered ramekins. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake.

CAR SNUFFS OUT LIFE OF YOUNGSTER

Webster Laird, run over by W. H. McMahon at noon Wednesday on Malone Avenue, died an hour and a half later in the office of Dr. T. C. McClure. His chest had been crushed in by the wheels of the car which passed directly over his body.

Webster, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Laird, was playing with his brother in the street and parkway along Malone Avenue in front of Manos Cafe, where his mother was employed. The two were playing tag and chasing one another about, when Webster darted out into the street without looking to see if there were any cars coming. At the time there were three cars coming along the street. Webster dodged the first, but the Star car, driven by Mr. McMahon, caught him and crushed him under the wheels before McMahon could stop. McMahon was not driving fast at the time, according to witnesses and did all within his power to avert the accident.

The boy was taken at once to Dr. McClure's office, but he lived only one hour and a half. The body was taken to the undertaking parlors of H. J. Welsh, where an inquest was held by H. J. Welsh, coroner. The following report was rendered by the jury: "We, the undersigned, find that the deceased, Webster Laird, came to his death from an unavoidable accident. We completely exonerate W. H. McMahon from all blame."

The body was taken to Mrs. Laird's rooms in the Sexton Building and from their shipped Thursday to Fulton, Ky., where it will be interred in the Pinejir Cemetery.

Webster Laird was 5 years, 4 months and 12 days old and was a bright, likeable child. The Standard joins the community in sympathizing with the parents in their loss.

C. E. Cole spent Thursday in St. Louis on business.

Herman Smith and Paul Slinkard left Thursday morning on a motor trip for several days to Carthage and Springfield, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Richardson will arrive in Sikeston from Hot Springs, Ark., Friday, where they will visit with relatives of the latter. Mrs. Richardson was formerly Miss Nina Taylor.

There are more homes damaged from the recent high winds and heavy rains than there are insurance agents in Sikeston. Just a hint to those who have carried policies and have been disappointed in getting a settlement. One agent who had 48 claims in one company had everyone of them satisfactorily adjusted. Another agent had 120 claims. The first 100 visited by the adjuster, 98 were promptly settled, the other 2 will be settled and the other 20 are being considered. One agent in Sikeston wired his company that the damage was by hail and not wind and rain. This word was transmitted back to the adjusters who were on the ground and they gave what consideration was due this message after viewing the havoc. Who was the agent sending such a message, and will he continue to be the same friend to his home people?

We wonder what has happened to the Community Hall proposition? The windstorm didn't blow the building away. It's still out at the Fair Grounds. Can it be that the people of the community are not sufficiently interested to care whether we have a hall or not? Or, are they waiting for "George to do it"? We'd like to have some expression of opinion about Mr. Young's suggestion. Does the town want a community hall?

NOTICE

The Kroger Stores wish to make this explanation of their failure to comply with the closing agreement which they signed together with the other merchants. That operating under the supervision of the head office, it is necessary to get the consent of the general manager to their closing. That they have made every effort to get his consent which has been delayed because he has been on his vacation and it has been impossible to get a hearing from him. That just as soon as his permission can be secured, they will willingly and gladly comply with the agreement which they are heartily in accord with.

It becomes increasingly apparent to us, that the hope of the agricultural States, rest not upon the Democratic party or upon the Republican party, but upon putting in office men who will truly represent them and maintain their interests. If the voters can be induced to forget their sense of party allegiance which in most cases harks back to Civil War times and is based upon a conviction that the Republicans are all carpetbaggers, or that the Southerners are all rebels seeking to destroy the Union and see that neither party is making an effort to bring about relief but that that effort is being made by a group of men in Congress who are working together irrespective of party lines for the good of the agricultural states, then in the election this fall they can score a sweeping victory that will do more to bring about actual relief for this section than will all the Republican and Democratic election promises made in the next half century. By forgetting party, by voting for the man, irrespective of party, who will truly fight for the interests of agriculture, the voters can only make their power truly felt.

There is to be pretty keen competition in both political parties for Constable of Richland Township. Dick Hopper, living 3 miles north of Sikeston, has decided to fling his hat into the Democratic ring against W. R. Burks and Brown Jewell for the nomination. He has nothing to say against either of his opponents, but says for himself that if nominated and elected, he will promptly give service to all papers put into his hands. Furthermore, that he has never been mixed up with any law breakers and they have no strings on him, that he will serve to the best of his ability. He asks the support of the Democratic voters.

The tragic death of Webster Laird and the narrow escape of Lucille Arnett from death this past week, should indelibly stamp upon the minds of parents the danger that hangs over the heads of children who play in the streets. The streets and highways are built and maintained for the use of vehicles, not as playgrounds, and with the increase of traffic that is rapidly coming about, their use as a playground becomes increasingly dangerous and parents should see to it that their children do not play in the streets.

An explanation of the failure of the Gross Company to close on last Thursday. The Gross Company signed the agreement only with the provision that the other stores in the Shoe Factory district close also. The others did not sign the agreement, and by mistake the name of the Gross store was left on the agreement when it was printed, so they did not violate their agreement in failing to close.

The Standard was honored Tuesday afternoon with a call from Curtis Betts, staff correspondent of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, who is following the Williams party for his paper. Mr. Betts is a brother of Mrs. F. B. Newton of this city.

Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Cox have returned from Cairo, where they have just closed a four weeks Home Mission Campaign and organized a good Church of the Nazarene in Cairo. Rev. Cox will preach at his home church Sunday morning and night at the usual hours. Everyone is invited to attend these services.

A bevy of young ladies came down from Sikeston last Saturday afternoon for a visit over the week-end with friends in this city. Making up the party were Misses Virginia Freeman and Barbara Beck, who were the guests of Miss Dorothy Ward; Louise Shields, who visited her cousin, Miss Mildred Byars, and Tylene Chilton. They made the trip in Miss Bowman's car and left this forenoon to return to their homes. It may be added that the visit of the attractive quintet brought sunshine into the hearts of several young lads of Caruthersville, who doubtless will be glad to see the call repeated.—Caruthersville Demo-

CLUB IS FOUND IN PUBLICITY

Newspaper Real "Big Stick" in Traffic Safety Work, Says Graham.

"Constructive newspaper publicity has been one of the important factors in bettering traffic in New York," said George M. Graham, chairman of the traffic planning and safety committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

"It has pilloried the careless driver. It has published the names of those whose licenses were revoked or suspended.

"Credit, to be sure, cannot be allotted to one source.

Praise Is Due.

"Charles A. Harnett, motor vehicle commissioner, is deserving of great praise in the reduction which has come about during his administration.

"He has enforced the law rigorously.

"He has had a good law supporting him.

"He has had intelligent backing in various municipalities.

"The combination of these elements in removing the reckless driver from the highway, plus the activity of the newspapers in publishing these lists, is, we believe, one of the most helpful demonstrations in the progress of traffic control.

"Persecution of the careless driver, however deserved, would tend to bring a reaction.

"But the calm, constructive attitude of the press in simply publishing the facts, listing the persons who have lost their licenses is, I believe, one of the most potent measures that can be used.

"It is hard to enforce jail sentences and in a large city traffic lines do not have much news value. But the drivers of communities have food for sober thought when they see several hundred of their neighbors listed for revocation of licenses.

"Nobody on that list receives sympathy. The average motorist will take particular care to keep off that list.

Licenses Revoked.

"But there are other states where revocation of licenses is in effect and where tremendous, constructive effort has been exerted, without avail, to bring about reductions.

"Such cases need special analysis by the persons in charge. It may be that only a few newspapers are publishing the revocation lists. It may be that there are a number of danger places on the state highways that are causing accidents, even when the drivers are careful. There may be inadequate police patrol to check up on recklessness.

"Certain it is, that if New York state with its great number of cities, its large foreign population and its great volume of tourist traffic can reduce accidents, the work of other communities earnestly working on this will in time be rewarded."

Distilled Water Quite Essential for Battery

Distilled water is, of course, absolutely essential for the storage battery. It is not always possible to procure this easily and any car owner can make his own distilled water by means of a very simple apparatus. Have a length of annealed copper tubing coiled, so that it will fit in a dishpan. Connect the end of the copper tubing with an ordinary tea kettle by means of a short piece of rubber tubing. The other end of the tube is curved so that the water passing down will drip into a bottle or other container. The dishpan in which the coil rests is filled with cold water, frequently renewed to keep it cold. The water in the tea kettle is boiled and the steam so produced passes out of the spout into the tube, through the coil, where it is cooled and condensed back into water again and is finally collected for use in the bottle at the end of the copper line. 578,750 the previous year.

DEVICE "OUT-THINKS" MAN IN MANY CASES

A remarkable electric clock with uncanny powers has been invented by a Washington ophthalmologist, Dr. J. C. Van Slyke, who has trained it to some feats that even many humans are incapable of doing. This clock will turn on automobile parking light 18 minutes after sundown—not at five o'clock or 6 o'clock, but exactly 15 minutes after the sun has sunk below the horizon. It will turn that same parking light off at daybreak the following morning in the same mysterious way. The invention will do other remarkable things without adjustment at any time, except every four years, to account for leap year. Government horological experts are manifesting considerable interest in Doctor Van Slyke's invention.

Pedestrians Responsible for Many Auto Accidents

By W. H. Cameron, Managing Director, National Safety Council, Chicago.

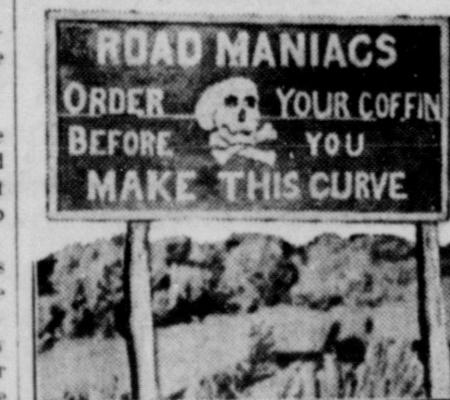

Pedestrians are responsible for a great many automobile accidents. Some of them need guardians to escort them across the streets. Too many Jay walkers ramble about without restraint, crossing thoroughfares where it is most convenient for them to do so, getting in the way of motorists who have the right of way and generally clogging up traffic. Very often motorists have to suddenly pull into curbs to avoid striking Jay walkers, endangering their own lives and property, only to be greeted with unkind words by the thoughtless pedestrians. One wonders what these careless people are thinking about when they walk in front of fast-moving traffic, without stopping, looking or listening.

Too many pedestrians do not appreciate their own responsibility but place it all on motorists. To educate them is one of our tasks, a problem that faces every safety advocate actively engaged in accident prevention work. Pedestrian traffic must be standardized and the sooner it is done the better it will be for the nation. There should be uniform laws for pedestrians just as many communities have standard traffic regulations for motorists. The burden of responsibility should not be placed upon either the motorist or the pedestrian alone, for if this is done the other will run wild. It is just as important to teach the pedestrian to keep from being hit as it is to educate the motorist from striking him. In other words, what is needed is sort of a motorist-pedestrian partnership.

It is more important for the pedestrian to be careful than for the motorist, for it is usually the pedestrian who is injured in an automobile accident. Of the 21,000 men, women and children killed by automobiles during 1925 two-thirds were pedestrians.

Death is so permanent!

Highway Sign of the Times

The residents of Parowan, Utah—on the Zion National Park highway—have had their beauty sleep disturbed so often to give first aid to the injured, after some daring driver tried to negotiate a turn on leaving town at high speed, they did this. Photograph shows the sign they had erected near the turn, as the last word in warning.

Nearly 26 Million Cars in World, Says Census

The world had 25,973,928 automotive vehicles in operation on January 1, according to figures of the Department of Commerce at Washington, compiled from a world-wide census. This total is 3,273,000 in excess of that for the year before.

While the United States predominated overwhelmingly in vehicles in operation, with 19,990,436, other countries were becoming more important factors. Great Britain had 1,474,573 machines running; France, 855,000; Canada, 727,594; Germany, 539,830; Italy, 184,700; Argentina, 181,250; Brazil, 64,950, and Russia, 78,500.

Apparently the country where the automobile is least desired is Tibet, for the search disclosed only one machine there, a motor cycle.

The January 1 total for passenger cars alone was 20,799,151, against 18,578,750 the previous year.

SCOTT COUNTY IS REPRESENTED AT C. M. T. C.

This county has furnished its quota of young men for the Citizens' Military Training Camp, being conducted at Jefferson Barracks, by Uncle Sam. Among those from this county ordered to camp were: Arlyn Lloyd Emerson, Morley; John Collins Burks and Russell Ellis Warner, Oran; Harry Stubbs, Blodgett; Erskine Charles Davis, Hartford; Earl Buckminster, Willard Clinton Douglas, Charles S. Downs, Bert Francis Holby, Harold T. Sturm and Lucius Stanley Wilson, Illmo.

The camp formally opened Thursday, July 8 and will continue until Friday, August 6. Seventeen hundred boys from Missouri, Illinois and Arkansas were ordered to the camp and are living in a tented city on the grassy slopes of the beautiful Jefferson Barracks parade ground.

The 500 tents all have room for six comfortable cots and mattresses.

They have wooden floors and electric lights and running water is available at each company street for the use of the boys. The meals are served in big concrete building where all of the boys are fed at one time. In order to be sure of plenty of good food, the government has more than doubled the usual allowance of army meals and the boys are assured of chicken, ice cream, pie and all of the delicacies that mother makes.

While Wednesday, August 4th is formally set aside as visitors day, Colonel Moore N. Falls, the camp commander, has extended an invitation to friends and relatives of the boys to visit camp at any time. Visitors are requested to go to the Information tent, where guides will be furnished to direct them to the proper companies.

The camp is divided into six infantry companies of first year men, three infantry companies of students that have attended former camps and one field artillery battery of former camp students.

IN MY WAY

By Warren T. Kingsbury

Women: Kipling's famous characterization of woman as, "A rag, a bone, a hank of hair", while striking and apt is hardly at the present time all-inclusive. In fact, it makes no provision whatsoever for the dash of powder, the dab of paint, that makes a girl look what she ain't. But then Kipling wrote the "Vampire" before the cosmetic age.

In writing of women today, I'm writing about something of which I know nothing. Experience with several of the weaker sex has convinced me of that. Therefore in essaying this subject, I have sort of a "fool's rush in where angels fear to tread" feeling. Which necessitates an explanation of my dealing with this topic when there are so many other subjects I know more about with which I might deal. A woman asked me to write about women. And, as is the case always, when a woman smiles at me and gives me one of those gentle looks, I couldn't bear to refuse her, so here you are.

I might of course give you the pronouncements of the village sheiks in regard to the fair sex. They freely and boldly admit that what there is to know about women, they know. Maybe they do, but it's my personal opinion that if they do they're far wiser than their forefathers. They each have their formula for getting along with the ladies. There is the "treat 'em rough and make 'em like it" type. There is the lad with the looks of an Arrow collar ad, then there is the boy with a "line". And speaking of lines, I never yet have seen a lady who didn't love to be flattened. It makes no difference whether she is an infant in the cradle or a grey-haired old grandmother, the dearest words to her ears are those which tell of her charms. They all deny it, but it's the truth, nevertheless. I've seen lots of baby girls whose voices were raised to the high heavens with shrieks and screams, quiet down to a gurgling laugh of contentment as soon as some small male would start talking about what a lovely little baby she was. And I've seen the grouchiest and most crabbed old matrons burst forth like the sun in April, all radiant smiles, when some youth, one-third her age, told her what a truly handsome and beautiful lady she was. Yes, they like it.

There's just one thing certain about a woman. You know that you never know just what she will do. That seems to be women's prerogative, an inalienable right to change her mind, when, where and in whatever manner she may deem proper. And she sure does it. If you don't believe it, just ride with or drive along behind some of our local women drivers. They may be driving calmly along down the street, when some whim causes them to wish to turn and do turn regardless. Stop signs are nothing to them. Neither are curbs. Their favorite manner of driving seems to be a process of powdering their nose with one hand while they point out the most adorable little hat in a shop window with the other. No wonder so many husbands go to the sanitarians with nervous prostration.

Another fact about women is that the average woman will talk more and say less in fifteen minutes than the average man can in fifteen days. Sometimes what they have to say becomes interesting. That is, when they begin to tell the intimate gossip (gore, I like to call it, because it's usually the life blood pouring from the wounds of some family) they seem to have an uncanny faculty for collecting. I've often thought that women should make the best newspaper reporters in the world, but the trouble is, they can't keep anything to themselves long enough to publish a paper so by the time the papers out they've told everybody all about it anyway.

There is something of the dramatic about women. They are all actors. They are all effecting a pose of some sort and trying to put it across upon the poor innocent males. There is the girl who acts the part of the clinging vine, and loves to hang on to the arm of her great, big, strong man. "Oh", as one of our local youths was told, "You great, wonderful man. So big and strong, you must play football". Then there is the athletic type of girl, who disfigures a any dependence on man. She will hike you to death, swim you to a point of exhaustion, and then dance all night with you until you're so tired it takes a week to recover.

There is the sophisticated type, who glorifies in a sirenish look, a freak hair cut, an amazing application of cosmetics and who funnels her liquor, is lost without cigarettes, and who is possessed of an amazing assortment of risque stories and epithets that would shock a trooper. Then there is the sweet, modest, shy young thing, affecting extreme innocence. Oh, there are all kinds of types. In fact, every woman is really a type to herself. There are just points where they approach a similarity. But they all, are acting and posing in the manner which they think most attractive to the eyes of mankind.

One other thing which impresses me, is the truth of the statement someone made that "Hell has no fury like a woman scorned". I've seen lots of angry men, but of all the dangerous people I've ever seen, an honest to goodness, angry woman is the most dangerous of the lot. Yes, sir, Kipling certainly knew his women when he said, "The female of the species is more deadly than the male". And before I go too far and stir some to violence, I stop.

MARSHALL-NORTHENGTON

Mr. and Mrs. (Mary Elizabeth Marshall) Billy Northengton, who were married last Saturday morning in Clarksville, Tenn., will make their home in Guthrie, Ky., for the present at least.

Mr. Northengton comes from one of the most prominent families of Guthrie and is one of the most respected young men of the town. He is one of a family of six, the family home being one of the finest old Southern mansions in the State, located two and a half miles out of Guthrie. Mr. Northengton is manager of a store in Guthrie, owned by his family, and he and his wife will make their home in an apartment in that town.

The couple made the acquaintance of one another this summer while Miss Marshall was visiting Miss Virginia Sodini in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Mr. Northengton was visiting a brother at that place and out of the meeting grew the romance. Mrs. Northengton is the daughter of Mrs. Florence Marshall of this city and was quite prominent among social circles. She had attended Monticello Seminary at Godfrey, Ind., the past year and was planning to enter National Park Seminary this fall. The Standard joins the many friends of the bride in Sikeston, in wishing the couple a happy and prosperous married life.

In certain parts of the South everybody eats dinner at midday and then takes a nap. Business is practically suspended for a couple of hours. Especially is this true of the summer season.

A Northern traveling man in a small town not far from where I was born and reared needed a lead pencil. Nobody around the little hotel seemed to have one to spare. The time was just after midday and the weather was sultry. He walked down the deserted main street until he came to a general store. A gentleman in his shirtsleeves, evidently the proprietor, was tilted back in a chair against the front door, taking a nap.

The stranger shook him by the shoulder, at first gently, then forcibly. The sleeper broke a snore short off and opened one heavy eye.

"Well?" he said, drowsily.

"I want to buy a lead pencil," said the traveling man. "a good five-cent lead pencil."

"Get no lead pencils," murmured the proprietor thickly, as his eyes closed again.

"Why, I can see a whole showcase full of them right behind you," protested the traveler.

The proprietor started to rise. Then inspiration came to him.

"Oh, them?" he said. "Them ain't for sale!" and went right back to sleep.

America Leads Nations In Use Of Ice Cream

If any one food may be considered as America's national dish, it is ice cream.

Ice cream is a food particularly adapted to the needs of individuals of all ages, giving as it does the best type of nutrients for the repair of bone, teeth, blood and muscles and for energy.

Today thousands of housewives make their own ice cream. As a consequence the making of this highly nutritious food at a reduced cost, yet without in any way impairing the product, is of importance.

Home economists have found a means to this end in the use of evaporated milk. There are three important reasons why evaporated milk

DEMOCRATIC NATIONAL CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE

Washington, D. C., July 10--Just before President Coolidge left for his vacation in the Adirondacks, he held a farewell conference with the newspaper correspondents, disguised as usual as the "White House Spokesman". He said nice things to the correspondents about themselves and about Congress, asserting that Congress had passed everything the President wanted passed.

Now that was a broad statement for the "Spokesman" to make. He seemed to have been seized with an aggravated attack of forgetfulness. Maybe it was the heat which caused him to get that way. Or perhaps he forgot the things Congress did not do as the result of his desire to get away from here as soon as possible and "keep cool with Coolidge".

The fact is that Congress rejected more Coolidge proposals than it approved.

Coolidge Proposals Passed by Congress

Here is the list of Coolidge proposals approved by Congress and enacted into law:

Entrance of the United States into the World Court, the revenue bill, the lump sum budgeting appropriations leaving to the Secretary of the Treasury the question of where and how they should be spent, the co-operative marketing bill and the railroad labor bill. These are the pieces of legislation which the "Spokesman" bragged about.

Coolidge Proposals Rejected by Congress

Here is the list of important Coolidge proposals which Congress rejected:

The Tincher farm bill, defeated in the House; the Fess farm bill, voted down in the Senate; the radio bill conferring authority over the air to the Secretary of Commerce; the sale of Muscle Shoals to the Alabama Power Company; coal legislation; change of the status of the Shipping Board so as to make that body responsible to the President instead of to Congress; Lincoln C. Andrews various bills for putting teeth into the Volstead Act; the railroad consolidation bill; the appointment of Wallace McCamant, of Oregon, who nominated Mr. Coolidge for Vice-President; to a federal job; the appointment of William J. Tilson, brother of the Republican Floor leader of the House, as U. S. District Judge in Georgia, and the appointments of Edward Brossard and Sherman J. Lowell to the Tariff Commission. The President's last act before leaving, however, was to give Mr. Tilson, Mr. Brossard and Mr. Lowell recess appointments.

Congress Actually Accomplished Little

The two chief accomplishments of Congress to which Mr. Coolidge points with special pride are the passage of the revenue bill and the World Court resolution. But, it is pointed out, both became law thru bipartisan support. A Democrat led the fight in the Senate for the World Court and many Democratic principles were incorporated in the revenue bill which were the most distasteful to the President and Secretary Mellon.

As to the other "accomplishments" of Congress--the lump sum budgeting system will only serve to increase the powers of the Secretary of the Treasury; everybody voted for the co-operative marketing bill, feeling that it would accomplish nothing but would not hurt anybody; and the railroad bill actually was nothing more than a ratification of an agreement between the carriers and their employees.

So after seven months of wrangling, it develops that the past Congress was a do-nothing-Congress. No one except the President and a few other Republican leaders have been bold enough to claim that anything of consequence was accomplished.

G. O. P. Must Stand the Blame
Floor leader Tilson told the House just before adjournment sine die that the Republican party must be responsible for everything done or not done by Congress. He said, "Inasmuch as we are responsible for everything with which fault may be found and must bear the responsibility for it, by the same token we must claim the principal credit for the good things that may have been done".

In replying to the farewell speech of the Majority leader, Minority leader Finis Garret, said, "As for public matters I have only to say that my party is content to rest for its appeal to the country this autumn upon the record which has been made here. We have not been able to initiate; we have not been able to prevent. Only at rare intervals have we been able to amend. We have served, as we sought to serve, the proper functions of a minority party".

"There are differences between the parties that are deep and fundamental. We shall go before the people again this fall and present our case in the earnest hope and in the belief that that appeal is not to fall on deaf ears and that the next Congress is to witness a difference in political control".

A hog will find shade in hot weather if he can, but if the shady place he finds is also hot, he does not seem to realize it, and will stay there and die from overheating. For this reason it is best to close any buildings that are not cool forcing the hogs to get shade elsewhere. The natural shade from trees is preferable to any other.

If trees are not available, a good artificial shade should be made by setting posts and building a cheap framework about four-feet from the ground, covering it with brush, hay, or straw. A shade of this kind is better than one made of boards or sheet iron. If dust accumulates the covering should be made wet by watering with a hose or bucket. This will serve the double purpose of cooling the air and settling the dust.
